SISTERS BATTLE BURGLAR

Do athletics pay—for girls.

Miss Irene Levine of No. 144 Bryant street, Malden, will say so. Her sister, Tillie, will echo her sentiments. Their mother, Mrs. Phillip Levine, who in the past did not regard their athletic proclivities with too kind an eye, now is a firm believer.

Mrs. Levine heard steps and awakening caught a flash of a negro in the Levine home. She screamed, got out of bed and switched on all the lights. The scream awoke Irene, who got out of bed and joined her mother.

They began to look around the house. Irene instructed her mother to telephone for the police. She then went into Tillie's room and awoke her sister. Both girls began to look for the burglar.

They found him, finally, under Tillie's bed. Irene dragged him out by the feet and struggled with him. Tillie joining in. The two girls had no difficulty in holding William N Hill of Bryant street until the police arrived.

WARD CASE SHIFTS TO HAVERHILL

Final Hearing in Murder Probe in Home Town of the Slain Youth

New York, April 9.—Attorney-General Sherman's investigation of the Ward-Peters murder case was temporarily halted today, when attorneys representing the Ward Baking Company and Ralph D. and Walter S. Ward obtained from Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel a temporary injunction restraining the Attorney-General and the Western Union Telegraph and Postal Telegraph Companies from publishing any and all cablegrams relating to the case.

Haverhill, April 9.—The concluding hearing in the Ward-Peters case, now being conducted by Attorney-General Carl Sherman in New York State, will be held at Havarhill, Attorney Frederick H. Magison of Haverhill announced today.

The hearing is being conducted to determine why the charge of murder against Walter S. Ward, wealthy bread manufacturer of New Rochelle, was dismissed. Magison represents Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge O. Peters, parents of Clarence S. Peters, the youth who was slain.

An interchange of correspondence between Mr. Magison and Mr. Sherman resulted in the decision to hold the final hearings in Haverhill, in order to give Mr. and Mrs. Peters and other witnesses a chance to testify.

Absence of Witness Delays Ward Probe

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (By International News Service).—Failure of Samuel Miller of New York, one of Walter S. Ward's attorneys, to appear at the Capitol today delayed the opening of the second week of the investigation the State is making into the Ward-Peters murder.

Miller, according to Deputy Attorney-General W. W. Chambers, had been subpoenaed. When his name was called there was no response. None of the other witnesses were present and the hearing was adjourned until noon.

WIFE FLEES FAMILY TO ELOPE

Lynn Woman, Mother of Two Children, and Father's Chauffeur Missing

Mrs. Bessie Scholnick, daughter of Reuben Walkenstein, of No. 46 Latonia court, Lynn, has forsaken her husband and two children for her father's chauffeur, George Smith, of No. 133 South street, Lynn, according to a report the family made to the police today.

Shortly after her disappearance on April 6 the husband, Joseph Scholnick, a grocer, discovered the loss of $300, while her father missed his $92 watch and $250.

The family informed the police that Mrs. Scholnick told her husband and her father more than a week ago that Smith had threatened to kill her unless she fled with him.

The relatives believe that fear of Smith's threats caused her to desert her family.

The missing woman told Scholnick Thursday she intended going to Ilon on Friday, but would be home early. When he awoke Friday he found she had gone and had taken all her clothing with her.

Frequently repeated wishes to go to the West and "see the country" and desire to visit the Hollywood movie colony caused her relatives to think that the elopers may be headed toward California.

NEW ARMY DIRIGIBLE ON 500-MILE FLIGHT

Akron, O., April 9.—The T. C-1, largest army non-rigid dirigible, left Wingfoot Lake station this morning at 8:15 o'clock, en route to Scott Field, at Belleville, Ill., 500 miles. It was planned to make an average speed of 40 miles an hour. The T. C-1, first of three ships of the type to be built at the Goodyear plant here for the army, is especially designed to use either helium or hydrogen gas. The ship is 195 feet long. Cruising radius is estimated at 1,630 miles.

HAIL STORM CAUSES PANIC; MANY HURT

Thibodeaux, La., April 9.—Several persons were injured during a panic in a motion picture theatre caused by a heavy hail storm. At the first sound of the hailstorm on the roof, scores of persons, believing the building was collapsing, made a rush for the exits. Those injured were caught in the jam. After reaching the sidewalk many were said to have been stunned by the large hailstones.

CURLEY AND PHELAN CLASH

"Bawl Out" Each Other Publicly in Dining Room of Copley-Plaza

Mayor Curley and former State Fuel Administrator James J. Phelan had a spirited political argument in the main dining room at the Copley-Plaza Saturday night, but did not threaten to exchange blows.

At least Mr. Phelan today hotly denied that there was any danger of a physical encounter at any stage of the controversy which attracted the attention of other diners, but which was not, in the version of Mr. Phelan as melodramatic as reported.

The Mayor also denied any physical encounter.

The fuss started as the result of a jocose remark on the part of Mr Phelan to Mrs. Curley that he might be a candidate for Governor. Mrs Curley told Mr. Phelan if he ran her husband would "lick" him.

"She meant in a political sense, at the polls, and not in a physical sense," explained Mr. Phelan today.

MUCH EXAGGERATED.

"The version published in another Boston newspaper is very much exaggerated," added Mr. Phelan. "There was never anything approaching a blow or a fight of any sort. Even our argument did not attract the attention that this published report makes it appear occurred.

"The affair happened at 9:30 Saturday evening. I went to the Copley-Plaza to lunch with friends. I noticed Joseph O'Connell, Mrs. O'Connell and Mrs. Curley at a table. I stepped over to Mr. O'Connell's table to speak to him about a matter of business.

"Mayor Curley was not at the table at the time. After I finished my chat with Mr. O'Connell, Mrs. Curley addressed me. She mentioned that the newspapers had been attacking me. I passed it off lightly, saying that I hadn't been very severely treated and that I might yet be a candidate for Governor.

POLITICAL SENSE.

"Mrs. Curley replied that if I did her husband would 'lick' he, meaning in a political sense at the polls and not physically.

"I then returned to my table. When Mayor Curley joined his party, apparently Mrs. Curley told him of what was said while I was there and he came over and asked me about it.

"I think either he or Mrs. Curley misunderstood my words or meaning. She may have taken seriously what I intended as a pleasantry. But though the Mayor and I argued the point, neither lost his head, nor

Opposition to League Stronger--Lodge

Washington, April 9.—Senator Lodge says the American people are against the League of Nations more than ever. Senator Pepper had said, in effect, that Lord Robert Cecil had indicated a way for the United States to get into the league. To this Senator Lodge makes reply:

Senator Lodge.

"As to the attitude of the United States on the League of Nations, I am not aware of any change in regard to the United States entering the League of Nations, nor so far as I know is there any change in attitude among those who voted and spoke against the league in the campaign of 1920, unless it be that there is a more deep-seated opposition among the American people to entering the League of Nations now than there was at that time."

WAITT WAS "PEEVED," SAYS WIFE

Told Whole World About Her Proposed Visit, She Declares

Peeved because his wife Lillian was going to New York for a visit, Albert H. Waitt, millionaire Newton real estate operator, told the world by radio all about her proposed trip.

"I told 'daddy' I wanted to take a little trip to New York. He objected. He did not want me to go. Then he fussed about it. I insisted that I was going.

"Then he got spiteful and went upstairs to our private radio sending station, registered under the letters IAOV and broadcasted the fact that 'Mrs. Lillian D. Waitt of Newton is about to leave for New York City, where she will visit Sand-So.'

"Despite his radio message to the world I went to New York and had an excellent time. When I returned our home was in darkness and my husband had left a note saying he had gone to South Africa, but I learned that it was got true. He is now in Allston with friends."

BELIEVE 3 SAFE OFF RUM SHIP

Finding of Battered Boat Indicates Trio Escaped as John Dwight Sank

The fate of three missing men from the steam lighter John Dwight, sunk in Vineyard Sound with a known loss of eight lives, presumably after a battle with rum pirates, remains unsolved today.

The belief is growing that the missing trio escaped and are hiding or that the survivors have made their way to Boston or some other Massachusetts city.

DODGE QUESTIONERS.

This theory is borne out by the fact that three strange-acting men put in to Edgartown with a section of a badly damaged cylinder head and by the fact these men telephoned some one they had escaped safely.

A man outside the telephone booth heard one of the trio say: "Oh, I escaped all right; yes, we escaped safely."

There is possibility that two of the missing men from the John Dwight may have been the two nervous-acting fellows who sailed over from Wood's Hole to view the bodies of the eight victims in the morgue.

This couple appeared anxious to avoid questioning.

They were caught in several mis-

GOVERNOR DEFIED BY BENTON

Attorney-General Drops Allen and Goes Own Way in Big Political Feud

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton has cut the Gordian knot which threatened to tie him into the bitter feud between Governor Cox and Attorney-General J. Weston Allen.

He has gone to Washington to wage the State's fight against the Sheppard-Towner act himself.

By that decision, Benton casts defiance at both the Governor and former attorney-general.

He drops Allen as a special assistant attorney-general.

He has gone to Washington on his own own responsibility and on his own initiative, in defiance of Governor Cox's recent declaration that no officer or employe of

VICTIM IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Notebook Reveals Fear Rich Oil Man Felt of Harm by "Riders"

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 9.—Kent W. Ogden, the wealthy oil man found dead with a bullet through his heart last Tuesday in his oil fields near Wallace, twelve miles north of here, had divulged plans of the Ku Klux Klan to torture F. S. Eastlack, a law-abiding merchant of Wallace.

EX-KLAN OFFICIAL.

Kent Ogden was forty years old, married, and the father of three children. He made a fortune in oil in the Wallace fields. He was one of this State's most highly respected citizens. When the Ku Klux Klan was organized Ogden joined the Wallace Klan and was made an official.

The Klan grew in West Virginia and began to thirst for power. It sought to govern the private actions of private citizens as well as the official acts of public servants. Ogden, a cool, level-headed man, objected to the spirit of mobism which began to burst forth.

The climax came when plans were made to thrash Eastlack because the latter had expressed himself against the Klan's usurping the powers of the government. Ogden

15 TONS OF EXPLOSIVE FOUND ON DOCK

The police today found stored at Charlestown, in shed 46 on the dock side of the Mystic Wharf freight yards, enough explosive to blow up the entire city. It was a shipment of 15 tons of chloride of potash, and when it was ascertained that the explosive was stored without a permit, Police Inspector Stephen J. Flaherty, State Explosives Expert Walter L. Wedger and District Fire Chief Alfred Caulfield appeared before Judge Lourie in Municipal Court and asked for a warrant for the arrest of the man to whom the stuff was consigned. It is said the explosive came from Germany.

ANTI KU-KLUXERS BOMB CHICAGO STORE

Chicago, April 9.—The third bombing within a week, attributed by police to opponents of the Ku Klux Klan, occurred today when a time bomb was set off in the doorway of a drug store owned by Albert A. Kurrasch. Windows and show cases in the front part of the establishment were shattered, and Mrs. Thomas Carey, widow of a police captain, and five children in an apartment over the store, were thrown from their beds but not injured.

the State is permitted to travel outside the State on public business without first receiving approval from the Governor.

BENTON DEFIES GOVERNOR.

Benton is accompanied to Washington by Assistant Attorney-General Alexander Lincoln, who laid the ground work of the State fight against the constitutionality of the Sheppard-Towner law. They are to confer with the solicitor-general, upon whom Benton will serve a demand for an early trial of the case before the United States Supreme Court.

The resumption of the bitter row between Governor Cox and former Attorney-General Allen was fraught with greater embarrassment for Benton than for either of the two feudists.

Governor Cox

Governor Cox positively declared he would not permit Allen to be employed by the State in any capacity. He refused to approve Allen's bill of $144.69 in expenses incurred by him in traveling to Washington and New York in the capacity of a "special assistant," co-operating with Lincoln in preparing the State's case against the maternity-benifits law. He declared that he, alone, is equipped with the power to permit a State's officer to travel outside the precincts of the State.

Benton is convinced that he cannot legally engage Allen as a "special assistant" without the consent of the Governor and Council. He believes he could appoint Allen as a permanent assistant attorney-general, but is that event he would be obliged to petition for Allen's compensation to the Governor, who has decided to keep Allen out of the State service.

FORCED TO MAKE CHOICE.

Benton was faced with a choice of one of two horns of the dilemma. If he went through with Allen, against the impossible legal barrier stated above, he was certain to attain the unending hostility of Governor Cox and the Governor's friends.

J. Weston Allen.

Failing to make a pretense of "going through," he might be accused of independence. Cox and Allen are veterans in the politicalgame. Benton is a young man, with his whole political future before him.

He, therefore, found a new way out, curling himself apart from the two veteran political foes, and by his decision will probably incur the displeasure of both, of Allen, who is dropped when he hoped Benton would force the issue of his employment against the hostile Governor; of Cox, who finds the young Attorney-General defying his decision not to leave the State without executive sanction.

Allen requested appointment from him as a special assistant Attorney-General in the Sheppard-Towner case, secure in the knowledge that such appointment would in the end probably run up against the governor's opposition and lead to another pitched battle between them.

EMBARRASSING SITUATION.

In the national primaries fight against the Governor, in which he made all manner of serious charges against him, Allen had declared there was no further need for him to remain in the office of Attorney-General, that the work of his office would be completed on the day his term expired be ready to take up his duties of Governor if he beat Cox.

The Governor forced Benton to an embarrassing decision with regard to Allen and the Governor himself within three months from the day Benton took office.

Benton's decision to defy the pair of them will also leave Governor Cox and Allen to fight out between themselves the matter of Allen's expense bill of $144.69.

CASHIER PLAYED RACES

TIPS ON RACES BOUGHT BY FARNHAM

Evidence that Kenneth S. Farnham, missing $35 a week cashier for the Staples & Ide Insurance Company of No. 185 Devonshire street, was buying tips on the horse races and squandering money on the ponies was found in a telegram discovered in the apartment he suddenly deserted at No. 515 Audubon road, Back Bay.

This telegram, dated at New York, April 4, read:

"K. S. Farnham,

Which translated means that Farnham was directed by a tipster to wire the winnings of a ten dollar bet on the horse Rama running at the Bowie track to Appelbaum.

Farnham left a $20,000 shortage in his accounts when he disappeared. No trace of either he or his young wife have as yet been found by the authorities. It is believed that he lost large sums on the races.

Toronto, April 9.—A net, heavily loaded with fish, pulled fishermen from their boat into Etobicoke Creek and the current swept away their bodies. Herbert Sullivan and William McDole both leave families.

FINGERPRINT CLEW FOUND TO BANDITS

Police investigating the holdup and robbery of Paymaster Peter A. Gaddis of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, in which the bandits fled with $20,000, believe that fingerprints found on the number plates and other parts of the abandoned automobile used in the robbery may furnish a clew to the thieves.

They are now of the opinion that there was no connection between this robbery and the payroll theft at the American Optical Company's plant in Cambridge.

Several underworld characters well-known to the police have been missing from their usual haunts since the robberies and they are being sought with a view to checking up their movements on the day of the holdups.

HOME BUILDING ON LIGGETT ESTATE BEGUN

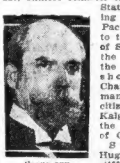
More than a score of single dwellings, ranging in cost from $40,000 to $60,000, involving more than $1,000,000 in all, will be constructed on the lower end of the Louis K. Liggett estate on Hammond street, Chestnut Hill.

The new development will be one of the finest in Greater Boston, it is said. Numerous improvements that accompany the development of a residential district have been arranged for. Six houses are now under construction. The entire group of houses will be ready for occupancy by Fall.

Mr. Liggett, who is head of the United Drug Company, does not contemplate removing from his own residence on Chestnut Hill, although he is moving his live stock to his farm in accordance with his plan for leaving a large part of the estate clear for development.

CHINA TO EXPLAIN SHOOTING AMERICAN

Washington, April 9.—Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to the United States, is speeding across the Pacific Ocean to tell Secretary of State Hughes the facts about the recent shooting of Charles Coltman, American citizen, at the Kalgan Gate of the great wall of China.



Secretary Hughes

Secretary Hughes sent a stiff note of protest, which was regarded as practically an ultimatum. Three governments have been in power in China since Coltman was shot, and China is reported to be seething with the spirit of revolt. Sze will attempt to persuade Hughes that his faction still holds the reins at Pekin, in North China, and that it will make suitable amends.

HAD PREMONITION.

Ogden had a premonition something would befall him. After confiding in his father, he wrote in a little notebook the history of his connection with the Klan.

Last Tuesday morning Ogden left his home and began to make the round of the oil derricks on his estate. Late that afternoon his body was found on the floor of one of his derricks. There was a bullet hole through his heart. A revolver—containing an empty shell—was by his side.

The authorities at first advanced the suicide theory. It was said Kent Ogden became temporarily insane with fear and worry over Klan activities. But his father, James Ogden, searched and found the notebook history.

R. I. WORKERS TO KEEP UP FIGHT

Pawtucket, April 9.—John J. Thomas, organizer of the United Textile Workers of America, today gave out the following resolution passed by the Rhode Island Textile Council in Olneyville, yesterday:

"Whereas, after requesting the textile manufacturers of New England last January for a restoration of the 22½ per cent. cut down, and

"Whereas, we have shown due patience in waiting four months since our demand and now being offered only 12½ per cent. be it

"Resolved, that the acceptance or rejection of the 12½ per cent. be left in the hands of our international officers, with the understanding that we will continue to fight for the wages unjustly taken away from the textile workers in 1920, with every confidence in the international officers to obtain the same."

A second resolution reads:

"Whereas, some members of the Rhode Island Legislature are intent on obstructing legislation relative to a forty-eight-hour week, be it

"Resolved, that this council go on record requesting our international officers advising the textile workers to work no longer than forty-eight hours in case the Legislature refuses to pass a law for the same."

BANDIT CHAPMAN FACES CAPTURE

Washington, April 9—Gerald Chapman, the mail bandit, who escaped recently from an Athens, Ga., hospital, is believed by Department of Justice officials here to be in hiding in or near Athens. Officials, who visited the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary and Athens last week, said today they expected his capture shortly.

Two New York men, suspected of being accomplices, are under surveillance by Department of Justice agents. Officials said the pair had been traced to a train leaving for New York on the date Chapman escaped.

BODY OF DEAD MAN UNDISCOVERED WEEK

Lowell, April 9.—The dead body of Francis X. Traveray, forty years old, a street department employe, was discovered in his home at No. 6 Hereford place, just one week after his death. The discovery was made by a policeman. There was no indication of foul play. He had a bank deposit of $2,000 and no known relatives.

BOSTON LOSES IN WOOL RATE CASE

Washington, April 9.—Present rates maintained by railroads on wool and mohair moving from New York to Boston were held reasonable today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which dismissed a complaint by the Boston Wool Trade Association.

DOG, RUN OVER, BITES YOUTHFUL MASTER

Ten-year-old John Connolly was severely bitten by his little pet dog when he rushed to its rescue after the animal was run over by an automobile at Valentine and Washington street, Roxbury.

The boy was treated at the City Hospital for wounds of the left hand and arm. A patrolman was obliged to shoot the injured dog to end his suffering.

The boy immediately ran to pick up the wounded animal. The latter snapped at his youthful master as he attempted to lift him, and buried his teeth repeatedly into the boy's hand and arm.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Connolly of No. 2796 Washington street, South End.

ESCAPED INMATE IS FOUND SLASHED

JEWS RAISE $100,000 FOR NEW BUILDING

More than $100,000 has been contributed to a $300,000 fund for the building of a new Temple Israel and Jewish Community centre by members of the congregation. The plans will be drafted at once and a committee will seek a desirable location, centrally located.

Among the large contributions were: A. Koshland, $5,000; A. C. Ratshesky, $5,000; Felix Vorenberg, $5,000; Simon Vorenberg, $5,000; Louis E. Kerstein, $5,000; Carl J. Los Angeles, April 9.—Held, technically, accused of the theft of an expensive automobile, Harlan Rowe will be questioned further by the police on the subject of Dorothy Keenan, the model who was slain recently in New York.

Rowe boasts, the police say, that he was a former sweetheart of the girl. In his pockets were found numerous newspaper clippings about her death.

ATTEMPT TO BURN SANDWICH ESTATE

Sandwich, April 9.—State Policeman Ernest Bradford of Hyannis is today investigating the attempt to burn the Freeman Farm, a historic landmark on the road between Sandwich and Sagamore. A passerby sounded the alarm and the volunteer firemen discovered hay had been placed about the garage and saturated with gasoline. Once started the barn and house would also have been destroyed. The property is owned by the heirs of the late Watson Freeman.

FOLLIES BEAUTY WEARS ONLY A BARREL

'STRIP GOLF' IS TOO MUCH FOR LARDNER

New York, April 9.—Miss Shirley Vernon, Follies beauty, admitted today she finished a game of "strip golf" clad only in a barrel. She lost to Miss Nellie Savage, another Follies girl at the 18th hole of the exclusive Sound View Golf Club.

What is more, she said, Ring Lardner saved her at the 17th hole from removing one of the most intimate articles of feminine attire. He threatened to quit as judge at that point and Referee Gene Buck persuaded Miss Savage, then an easy winner, to permit the barrel.

As in "strip poker," each player had to take off something each time she lost a point.

Miss Vernon cheerfully lost her coat and necktie at the first and second holes. Miss Vernon finished the fourth and fifth holes without shoes or stockings. At the ninth hole, Miss Vernon was without blouse, hat or skirt.

The only time Miss Vernon violated the rules was at the 13th hole, while clad in the barrel. She missed the last putt, but instead of removing the barrel, she ran for the clubhouse as fast as her wooden skirt permitted.

New York—New York has less open vice than any other of the world's largest cities, the annual report of the Committee of Fourteen said today.

North Sydney, N. S.—Thirty residents of Shgonish, a fishing and farming village of North Victoria County, have been stricken with smallpox and the epidemic is spreading rapidly.

Ottawa, Ont.—A government investigation into the action of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway in voting a total of $430,200 in gratuities in December, 1919, was ordered today by the Prime Minister. Seven officials have offered to return the fees voted them.

Lima, O.—Virgil Wisber, sixteen years old, lies in a hospital with a charge of buckshot in his legs, having been captured with two companions by officers who lay in wait for the author of a letter demanding $1,000 from Mrs. Edna Neely Rogers, prominent society matron.

Toronto—Miss Maggie Le Clair, vaudeville actress, died in St. Michael's Hospital from pneumonia. She was sixty-three and made her first stage appearance in 1879. Later she toured the United States and Canada with her husband as "Casey and Le Clair."

Washington. — Secretary Mellon announces that treasury receipts from income tax collections increased $70,000,000 in March, 1923 over March, 1922, and he cited increase as proof that downward revision of taxes has stimulated business.

The campaign of the Inter-Church Union, in co-operation with the police, to stamp out liquor violations and vice in Lynn is beginning to bear fruit.

As the result of information furnished by investigators of the union, the police, following instructions from the License Commission, today informed three storekeepers in Lynn that they would have to remain closed for a month as the result of liquor violations.

Seven other shopkeepers were punished by being compelled to keep closed Sundays until April 30.

SUMNER C. PARCHER, MAINE BANKER, DEAD

Biddeford, Me., April 9.—Sumner C. Parcher, president of the York National Bank, Saco, died at his home in Saco today, as the result of a stroke several days ago. Entering the bank as a clerk when he was a young man he was advanced step by step until he became cashier, a position he held for twenty-five years, and then president. His wife, a daughter of the late Congressman Amos L. Allen, with a son, Carl C. Parcher, a bond salesman, survives.

JUDGE TO PROBE HOUSE OF DAVID

Detroit, Mich., April 9 (By International News Service)—A one man grand jury, consisting of a judge of the Circuit Court, will investigate the House of David, Israelite colony at Benton Harbor, it was learned today. Judge Dingman, presiding Circuit Court judge, said he anticipated such a move and that he probably would be asked to name the judge.

BRITAIN SECRETLY BUILDS BIG PLANES

London, April 9 (By International News Service)—Great Britain is secretly building twelve new types of air dreadnoughts to be used chiefly by the navy, the Chronicle revealed today. One type is a five-seater coast defence plane with a 1,000-horsepower motor and a speed of 180 miles an hour.

DIES ON EVE OF HIS 111TH BIRTHDAY

Brockville, Ont., April 9.—Rufus Avery, who, had he lived until today would have been 111 years old, died Saturday at the House of Industry, Athens, Ont. He was an inveterate smoker. He is survived by his wife, 81 years old.

FEAR ONE SOUGHT DEATH

Ill From Overstudy; Other Youth Had Been Hurt in Auto Crash

Thomas R. Montgomery of Woods Hole and Philadelphia, and Seward S. Merrell of Syracuse, N. Y., students at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, have mysteriously disappeared.

Montgomery, twenty years old, and taking a special course in engineering, left the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house at No. 484 Beacon street, last Friday morning.

Fear is expressed that he has committed suicide through despondency, following a nervous breakdown and interruption of study.

Merrell, a sophomore, suffered a fracture of the jaw February 10 in an automobile accident. In the accident, Merrell was thrown against the steering column, and a companion was hurled through the windshield.

OFTEN WANDERED AWAY.

Merrell took the more seriously injured man to a hospital, and called the next day to inquire about his condition. He has not been seen since. According to his fellow students, Merrell has often wandered away on trips which were kept secret from his associates. On a wager, he once left Cambridge, penniless, for a two weeks' trip.

He is of nervous temperament, his fellows say, and has but little interest in his studies. His father, a member of Merrell-Soule, Syracuse, is in Boston seeking the boy.

City and State police, and private detectives failed to find any trace of Montgomery in three days of exhaustive search. A nation-wide alarm has been sounded in an effort to find him.

SEARCH FAILS.

He was last seen at 6 o'clock Friday morning, by Kenneth B. Walton, of Philadelphia, room-mate of the missing youth, at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house, No. 484 Beacon street. When he did not appear at breakfast Friday morning, it was believed by his fraternity brothers that he had gone for a walk, or that he had taken a ride in an automobile owned jointly by him and his room-mate.

Montgomery is known to have had $30 in cash with him at the time of his disappearance, and a check book on the Penn Trust Company. No motive other than overstrain from arduous study can be assigned by his college associates.

SON OF PROFESSOR.

Montgomery is son of Mrs. Priscilla and the late Dr. Thomas H. Montgomery, who was Professor of Zoology at University of Pennsylvania.

The youth was graduated from Haverford College last June. He was manager of the varsity basketball team and vice-president of his class.

He came to Tech for a special engineering course. He was extremely ambitious. He studied so hard that he suffered a nervous break down at Christmas. He returned home and was under his mother's care at Philadelphia and also at their summer home at Woods Hole until he returned last week, thinking to resume his studies.

There is a theory that he may have decided to go away and seek work in some belief that his post-graduate work has been a failure.

Montgomery's fraternity brothers said that there is no connection whatever between the disappearance of him and Merrell, the Tech sophomore. Merrell is not a member of Sigma Alpha Tau fraternity. A report that he lived at the Beacon street "frat" house is denied.

Henry Ford's Missus Just Won't Live in the White House

Albany, Ga., April 9—Mrs. Henry Ford will not live at the White House, she told a group of persons here when several woman approached her husband for some statement regarding the presidency. One woman said she would like to work for Mr. Ford and vote for him.

Mr. Ford promptly replied, however, that the presidency was not included in the aims of his life work and that he had no desire to serve as chief executive of the United States.

"If Henry really went to the White House to live there," Mrs. Ford promptly said, "he would have to go without me."

HUSBAND QUITS JAKE HAMON'S WIDOW

Chicago, April 9.—Reports that William L. Rohrer, capitalist, has separated from his wife, were confirmed today by Mr. Rohrer. Mrs. Rohrer is the widow of Jake Hamon, Oklahoma politician, who was slain by Clara Hamon.

Mrs. Rohrer.

Rohrer denied the charges of cruelty made against him in a recent divorce action which resulted in a decree being granted to Mrs. Rohrer. The decree was annulled later so that she might file again in an effort to obtain alimony rights, which were waived in the first suit.

A reconciliation was followed by another separation, which Mr. Rohrer declared was "irrevocable."

As for his statement that she is practically penniless, Mrs. Rohrer said: "Why, I only wish I had her income," he added.

ITALIANS COMBAT FASCISTI IN N. Y.

New York, April 9.—An alliance to combat the recently announced organization of the Fascisti of this country will be perfected at a meeting tomorrow night, it was announced today by officers of the Italian Chamber of Labor. Several labor leaders were declared to be interested in the new body, to be known as the Anti-Fascisti Alliance.

The Alliance's announced aims are to be the "extinction of all Fascisti organizations on the continent of North America, creation of popular sentiment opposed to the Fascisti regime in Italy and relief of radical and labor organizations in Italy which have been destroyed or harmed by the Fascisti." District headquarters are to be maintained in various cities.

It also was announced that the new organization would thoroughly scrutinize all Italian immigrants to ferret out Fascist agitators.

BELMONT SEES WEEKS ON CANAL MATTERS

Washington, April 9.—August Belmont, of New York, one of the owners of the Cape Cod Canal, conferred today with Secretary Weeks and is understood to have requested an extension of time in the contract between the canal company and the government relating to government purchase of the waterway. Belmont later went to the Department of Justice. The courts also have been asked to reconsider the valuation recently placed upon the waterway, which the government contended was excessive.

MISS McCORMICK GOES TO LONDON

Berne, Switzerland, April 9 (By Associated Press)—Miss Mathilda McCormick, daughter of the late Col. F. McCormick, of Chicago, is reported in a Zurich dispatch to have gone to London, accompanied by Max Oser, her Swiss fiance, and Oser's cousin, Fraulein Mangold, presumably in furtherance of her wedding arrangements. Miss McCormick spent the first part of the Winter at the country seat of the McCormick family near Lucerne and later went to Bastle and Zurich.

BRITAIN IN FEAR OF FRANCE

Latter's Supremacy in Air Causes Harsh Criticism of Bonar Law

An exhaustive study of European political and economic conditions has just been completed by David M. Church, chief of the London Bureau of the International News Service and for years a correspondent in Washington, D. C. He has spent considerable time in the Rhineland and Ruhr. In a series of articles, the first of which appears today, Mr. Church treats of France's air supremacy.

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, April 9.—A new danger is creeping into the European muddles. The already complicated affairs of Europe may be further complicated by Anglo-French air rivalry.

Against whom is France arming? Lord Birkenhead asked this question and it was re-echoed throughout the British Isles. In the House of Lords, in the House of Commons and in the press there are rapidly growing indications that the British people are becoming aroused.

LAW "INTIMIDATED."

Charges are being bandied about that the Bonar Law government has been intimidated by the French aerial supremacy. George Lansbury, Labor M. P., declares "European policy is controlled by military strength."

These charges have not fallen on unsympathetic ears.

The population has not forgotten the German air raids during the great war. Therefore, they become duly alarmed when told by aerial experts that the French air forces are strong enough to wipe out London and other great cities within a comparatively short time.

The people are being told that they have need to fear the supremacy of the French air forces, and with their fear come glimmerings of suspicion. These grow to a proportion where they will have a telling effect upon European affairs.

URGED TO SPEED UP.

The British government is being urged on all sides to speed up aircraft production. Yet it is reluctant to do so lest it must embarking upon the old war in armaments. It seems unless Bonar Law acts, the charge that his government represents a policy of "tranquility gone mad," will continue to be made and the people will continue to fear, and with their fears will come fresh suspicions, and where the suspicions will lead no man can tell.

The Anglo-French entente was badly shaken up by the French invasion of the Ruhr. It is being jolted every day by knowledge of French air supremacy.

HARDING BACK ON JOB AFTER VACATION

Washington, April 9.—President Harding was back at his desk today invigorated by his six-weeks vacation in the South. The President and Mrs. Harding arrived in Washington from Augusta, Ga., where they spent last week. Mrs. Harding was said to have shown only the slightest evidence of fatigue from the six-teen-hour journey and her recovered health was further shown by the fact that she walked through the station to the automobile at the entrance whereas, on leaving here, she was driven direct to the private car in the railroad yards.

ROAST PIG STOLEN ON CHINESE GRAVES

New York, April 9.—Chinese who today in various cities paid the tribute to their dead demanded of their own memorial day, used flowers and foliage, instead of the usual edibles for the consumption of the spirits. The Orientals say they found small boys in America will steal the fried chicken, roast pig or other delicacies laid on graves.

statements. After one had looked at the dead men they departed quickly in their boat, even though a heavy sea was running at the time and both claimed to have suffered from seasickness.

Many think the missing men reached safety and then, to cover their tracks, smashed the holes in the lifeboat and turned it adrift.

Reports of a vessel off No Man's Land, the island owned by Joshua Crane, strengthens the earlier theory that the John Dwight fell afoul of pirates before turning turtle and sinking.

The mystery ship, said have been a short way out, was in virtually the same waters as the Arethusa, the British schooner that did a land office business in liquor a year ago.

PLANE STANDS ON END, AVIATOR ESCAPES

Dayton, O., April 8 (By International News Service)—Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland escaped injuries when his Curtiss bullet skidded, broke one wheel and nosed over into an upright position at Wilbur Wright Field today. Maitland was taking off on what was to have been an effort to establish a record for the newly-created three kilometer course. After nosing over and reaching a perpendicular position, the plane remained standing and Maitland climbed out.

LAST MOVE TO SAVE PAPPAS

Case of Condemned Man Goes Before Full Bench of Supreme Court Wednesday

The last move to save the life of Paul Pappas will be made by his attorneys, John Schenck and J. P. Williams, before the full bench of the Supreme Court Wednesday morning.

Messrs. Schenck and Williams will present their arguments in the writ of error granted recently by Judge Braley, following one of the most sensational hearings in the history of Massachusetts jurisprudence.

On the afternoon of the day that Pappas, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault, in her rooming house on Columbus avenue in December, 1919, was to be electrocuted, he was taken from the death cell in the prison at Charlestown and brought to Judge Braley's court.

Upon a legal technicality Schenck and Williams made their fight for time, basing their plea on a State statute which they allege provides that a man convicted of murder must have a year's time from the date of his sentence in which to take any legal steps for a new trial.

Judge Braley declined to take the responsibility for personally deciding on the point of law involved, and inasmuch as a human life was at stake, gave the attorneys until May 1 to present the case to the full bench. This was done with the consent of District Attorney O'Brien, who appeared for the Government.

Even then Pappas' life hung in the balance, inasmuch as the law did not give Judge Braley the power to effect a stay of sentence. It was necessary for the Governor to hold an executive session with his council. The councillors were summoned from various parts of the State, and it wasn't until 7 o'clock in the evening that the necessary majority vote of the council gave Pappas his respite.

BISHOP TUTTLE REPORTED SINKING

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, head of the Episcopal Church in the United States, was reported today to be slowly sinking. Death may come at any moment, according to the most recent bulletin. Bishop Tuttle has been ill with grippe for nearly a fortnight.

ICE BEGINNING TO LEAVE BELFAST BAY

Belfast, Me., April 9.—The ice had left Belfast Bay today, also the Passagassawaukeag River, as far as City Point. The cutter Ossipee cut a channel to Eastern Steamship Lines' Wharf through ice varying in thickness from ten to sixteen inches. Two barges with coal for Searsport, in tow of the tug Paoli, grounded in Islesboro when the ice went out of Penobscot Bay, but were not thought to be in any danger.

UNTERMEYER BLAMES BANKERS FOR $1,000,000,000 STOCK FRAUDS

BALK LEGISLATION AIMED AT CROOKED BROKERS

By WILLIAM RANDORF.

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 9.—Surplus funds of the American business man and hard earned savings of the small investor—a billion dollars or more—finds its way yearly into the maw of swindlers and stock jugglers and gamblers, Samuel Untermyer, noted lawyer and publicist, told the Boston American today.

And the stock swindlers are immune. They can ply their trade unmolested. There is no comeback in most instances for the man who is defrauded.

These staggering losses are suffered through fake oil, mining and other promotions, through purchase of manipulated securities and through being trimmed by pools or cliques or syndicates who operate through stock exchanges.

Samuel Untermyer

CAN BE STOPPED.

The gambling operators have vast political and financial power to protect themselves, Mr. Untermyer pointed out.

And the only way the billion-dollar annual victimization of a gullible public can be stopped, he said, was through governmental regulation of the stock exchanges and through punitive and repressive laws which will safeguard the public from such exploitation as is going on today in sugar gambling and as occurred in the Figgly Wiggly corner.

"The extent to which New York stock brokers (some of them members of the New York Stock Exchange, but most of them members of the Consolidated Exchange) have defrauded their own customers since the war has been estimated by the district attorney of New York as over $500,000,000 and at over $100,000,000 during the past fourteen months—but these sums are a mere drop in the bucket as compared with the total losses through stock frauds and manipulation.

LEGISLATURE TO BLAME.

"The passive of parting these investors from their money is the only criminal activity that is peculiarly immune from punishment. The responsibility for that shameful condition lies with the Legislature. One hears the same tragic story day after day and yet nothing is done to stop it, easy as it would be to exterminate this form of crime.

"It is the vast political and financial power of great bankers, banking houses and prominent, respected members of the Stock Exchange, whose mistaken conception of the ultimate effect of restrictive legislation upon their own legitimate activities is responsible for the present intolerable situation. They seem to regard as necessary to throw their powerful protection behind the crooks, who have brought undeserved distrust and reproach upon their useful and honorable calling, in order to protect themselves against wholesome, constructive reforms, which, if inaugurated would do away with that suspicion and reproach and would add to the prestige and dignity of the highly necessary work in which they are engaged.

REMEDY IS EASY.

"It is their baneful influence over legislation and that alone, which is responsible for the defeat year after year of wholesome, regulatory legislation that would end such corruption in the marketing of securities and their methods of lobbying against this legislation are none too fastidious at that. If they would but release their grip upon legislative bodies, we could, almost over night, write upon our statute books laws that would protect the public as they are protected in other countries and would at the same time lift business standards to the point at which absolute safety would be assured.

"But these gentlemen must first radically revise their own code of ethics.

PIGGLY WIGGLY OLD STORY.

"There is nothing startling or exceptional about Piggly Wiggly. It is the peculiar name of the company rather than the circumstances surrounding that particular transaction that attracted attention. A lot of stock gamblers, members of the Stock Exchange, raided the market in a security listed on that exchange, by selling reams of stock that they did not own and had no thought of ever acquiring—selling it 'short' so as thereby to bring the price to a point at which they could disclose holdings of stock that they had covered their 'short' sales at a profit and thus make a 'killing' out of that gambling operation. That is the sort of 'easy money' that is made every day on the Exchange.

"When these gamblers found they had 'struck a snag,' that instead of being thus able to shake out weakly margined stocks and to frighten timid owners into parting with their stock at panic prices, that the stock was firmly held and that they were therefore unable to cover their 'short' sales, along come the governors of the Stock Exchange and, as usual, proceed to protect the gamblers at the expense of the investors.

"They first suspend dealings in the stock and then strike it from the list, thereby relieving the shorts from carrying out their contracts when they should, on the contrary, have insisted on their members meeting their obligations.

"There is nothing new about that performance. It has happened over and over again on the exchange. It happened at the time of the Northern Pacific corner, the Stutz corner and it will continue to happen until the public authorities have the same power of supervision over stock exchanges that they now exercise over banks and insurance companies in the State and Nation.

"But these gentlemen must first radically revise their own code of ethics."

BOMB WRECKS CANAL; BLOCKS RUHR TRAFFIC

Essen, April 9 (By the Associated Press).—The explosion of a time bomb destroyed the lock of the Dortmund-Ems Canal near here early today.

The canal was effectually blocked, seriously interfering with the complicated inland waterway traffic in the Ruhr.

This is the most serious case of sabotage reported on the Ruhr waterways. The lock destroyed is near the junction of the Dortmund-Ems canal with the main canal that runs down to the Rhine at Duisburg and Ruhrort, where the largest inland port in the world is located.

The intention of the dynamiters apparently was not only to block the canal, but to drain the water from the main Rhine-Herne canal, which is the main waterway artery of the Ruhr. The French say this main canal has not been interfered with, as the locks on both sides of the one which was dynamited were closed immediately after the explosion to prevent the draining of the main canal.

French Deport Ruhr Germans by Thousands

London, April 7.—The extent to which German officials are being deported from the Ruhr is fast attaining the proportions of a scandal, according to a dispatch to the London Daily News.

Lists of their names, running columns long, is becoming one of the daily features of the German papers. In several cases families have been aroused at midnight and deported in lorries.

Up to Saturday the French had seized twenty-seven billion marks, property of the Reichsbank. The citizens of Emmerich have been forbidden to walk with hands in their pockets. Fifteen persons, including several Dutchmen, have been arrested on this charge.

Five Shot, Two Dead, in Rioting at Memel

Berlin, April 9.—Two persons were shot to death and three wounded by Lithuanian soldiers at Memel in an outbreak of disorders, said a dispatch today.

Washington.—Claims of American citizens against Germany for $1,117,736,867 will be presented to mixed claims commission, American agent announces at Washington.

STEFANSSON URGES AIR ROUTE BASE

Ottawa, April 9.—Use of Wrangel Island, in the Arctic Ocean, as a base for a possible air route between Europe and the Orient is urged upon the Canadian government by Vilhalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, at a lengthy conference. Stefansson's party occupied Wrangel Island in 1914. He also urges that Canada declare its sovereignty over the Island.

DEMAND DEATH FOR RUSSIAN CHURCH HEAD

Stockholm, April 9.—The indictment against Patriarch Tikhon, head of the Orthodox Church in Russia, demands the death penalty if he is found guilty of agitating against the Soviets and of obstructing seizures of church property for the famine fund, said advices from Helsingfors today. The prelate's trial is to open in Moscow Wednesday. He was asked if he wanted counsel.

"No," replied the patriach, "I desire no defender except God."

Despite his refusal, the Soviets appointed a lawyer to defend him.

A Communist central executive and governing triumvirate at Moscow, consisting of Rykov, Kamenoff and Stalin, is unable to agree as to the form of government which should be installed after the death of Lenine, said a dispatch to the Tidings.

Lenine, the dispatch added, is very low and his death is expected daily.

A tentative decision has been taken to reorganize the administrative department, creating a council of forty, including both men and women. Owing to the strong anti-Jewish sentiment, Trotsky, Kamenoff and Karl Radek may not be members, but it is proposed that the following women be chosen: Mrs. Lenine, wife of Nicolai Lenine; Mrs. Kalinin, wife of the president of the Republic, and Mrs. Kollonalai.

Suggestion is being considered at Moscow for merging the Second and Third Internationale into a new Red organization. A meeting will be held shortly to consider French occupation of the Ruhr and to plan a crusade against the Fascisti.

Is Your Back Giving Out?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

IS that constant backache getting on your nerves? Does every morning bring the same dull, throbbing ache—every evening the same utter weariness? Then you should be looking to your kidneys! Winter's colds and chills are mighty hard on the kidneys. That's why springtime for so many folks is backache time! The kidneys fall behind in filtering the poisons from the blood. The effect on blood and nerves is quickly apparent. Your back aches, you have sharp, stabbing pains; feel nervous, weak and all played out. Headaches come, too, with dizzy spells and annoying bladder irregularities. Don't neglect these early symptoms—delay may mean serious kidney sickness. Help your weakened kidneys now with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Boston Folks Found Relief:

C. E. LEE, Moulder, 34 Dakota Road, Dorchester, says: "I strained my back doing heavy work and as a result I suffered from kidney trouble. I couldn't stoop on account of the misery in the small of my back. The kidney secretions passed too often and they were highly colored and burned in passage. As my wife had received good results from Doan's Kidney Pills, I bought a box. I soon felt better and after using four boxes of Doan's, I was cured."

MRS. C. J. CLANCY, 704 E. Fifth St., South Boston, says: "When I overworked my kidneys became affected and I suffered with kidney disorder. At times I had severe pains in the small of my back and I could hardly do my housework. My actions acted irregularly and I felt tired and out of sorts. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, bought at the Chamberlain Drug Co., and they quickly rid me of the backache and gave me strength and energy."

FRANK COAKLEY, carpenter, 65 Meridian St., East Boston, says: "I strained my back doing heavy lifting, and as a result I suffered with backache. When I stooped, a sharp pain struck me in the small of my back and I had to rise up by inches. The kidney secretions passed too often and they were scanty and highly colored. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I bought a box at Fraser's Drug Store. They relieved me of the backache and other symptoms."

See What Beauty Glistening teeth can add

"The chief items in beauty," says a famous connoisseur, "are the eyes and teeth." Yet countless men and women leave teeth dingy with a film.

There is now a way to combat film. People all about you now employ it. You see the results wherever you look—in teeth that glisten as they never did before. You want such teeth. Then make this test—find out how to get them.

Ruined by a film

Teeth are ruined by a film. The film is viscous. You can feel it now. But it clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All those troubles were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. All because the old brushing methods could not effectively fight film.

New ways discovered

Dental science, some years ago, set out to seek effective film combatants. Two were eventually found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research, and those two methods were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Today it is bringing, to countless homes the world over, whiter, safer, cleaner teeth—teeth like you desire.

It fights acids, too

Pepsodent also fights mouth acids in the proper way. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Advised by dentists of some 50 nations

Leading dentists the world over now urge the use of Pepsodent. In some 50 nations, careful people are fast adopting it. Thus Pepsodent is bringing a new dental era to people of every clime.

It is combating troubles for children which they rarely escape without it.

To millions of women it is bringing new beauty and new charm.

Men's teeth, once dimmed by tobacco, etc., are kept glistening by it.

Anyone who makes this test and sees the results will wish those results to continue.

Save from $52 to $78 a year

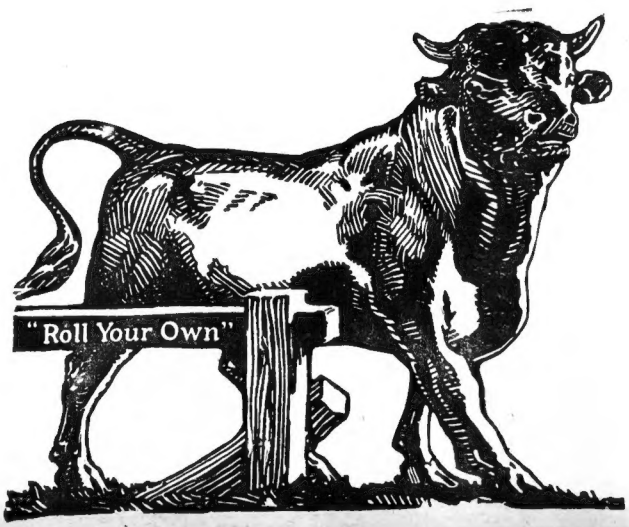
You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will cut down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

Here's one reason: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

50 ★ GOOD CIGARETTES 10¢



GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM TOBACCO

★ What a place "Bull" Durham holds in the hearts of Americans! Can you think of any other brand that has been the favorite of three generations?

Look at its history. From the Civil War to the Great War "Bull" Durham has been the American's greatest standby. Sixty years.

There really is no smoke in the world so altogether satisfactory.

A "Bull" smoker never switches. You can't interest him in any new experiments. He carries his preference wherever he goes.

This is because the special flavor and aroma of "Bull" Durham make a cigarette that can not be duplicated.

Find out. You will never know how good a cigarette can really be until you roll your own out of "Bull".

GRON ACCUSES HIS SON OF 9 OF ATTEMPTING BLACKMAIL

DIPLOMAT WILL SUE PASTOR

Declares He Will Demand $50,000 for Slander From Portland Man

Portland, Me., April 9.—Niels Gron, Danish diplomat, is being annoyed by his son, Niels Gron, Jr., nine years old, according to charges made public by Gron at the Mansion House, Poland Springs, where he is stopping with his bride of six weeks, the former Saidee Gowan-Dusenbery, wealthy Concord, N. C., widow.

These letters, he declares, each of which he characterizes "blackmail letters," were received from his son within a few days after the sensational divorce proceedings here last December, when Madeline Masters Gron secured a divorce from him.

Papers will be filed tomorrow, Gron said, in a $50,000 slander suit against a prominent Portland clergyman.

"But I'm going to hire a ball before the suit is tried," he said, "and invite my friends to hear my side of my marital troubles with my former wife."

Niels Gron, Jr., now in custody of Mrs. Madeline Gron, demanded money in his first letter to his father, and in his second enclosed a number of unpaid bills requesting his father to pay them. The third letter was of the same nature.

The boy's mother has filed a petition in Probate Court here, asking to have the name of her son changed to Masters Sloane. The petition will come up for consideration during the May term of court.

It is Gron's intention, he avers, to fight any action to change the name of his son.

Society Interested in Rummage Sale, Declares Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

BRAND new gowns—donated by Boston shops—and almost new ones are to be on sale at the gown shop which Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, sr., is running in connection with the big rummage sale to be held at Unity House on Tuesday, April 17.

Thereby setting a new pace, for everyone is sick to death of the sort of raiment one sees at the usual rummage sales. Mrs. Fearing is taking the trouble to see to it that all the frocks sold in her temporary "shop" will be in perfect or good condition, and a special room will be set aside during the sale for the exhibition and selling of these frocks.

Among the matrons who will help Mrs. Fearing with this unique shop is Mrs. Percy D. Haughton, wife of the famous football coach and one of the smart set's most attractive members. She and Mrs. Fearing, by the way, are scheduled to become "in-laws," for Mrs. Haughton's daughter, pretty Vera Howell, and George Richmond Fearing, 2d, recently became engaged.

Others who are helping with Mrs. Fearing's project are Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, Mrs. Richard L. Ackerman, Mrs. Robert C. Morse and Mrs. M. Graeme Haughton.

Speaking of the rummage sale as a whole, any contributions such as clothing, hats, shoes, books, games and furniture will be gladly received by the committee in charge at the Army and Navy Club, No. 10 Park square. The sale itself will be held next door at Unity House, and is one of the many events being held in connection with Patriots' week. During this week, from the 16th to the 21st, a campaign will be waged for funds to help maintain the Army and Navy Club.

The patriotic sales committee has planned for no less than twenty sales—rummage, food and flower—to take place in Boston and the vicinity during that week.

Besides these, there will be a number of bridge parties, while the week opens on Monday, April 16, with a gala benefit performance of "The Fool." Later that evening there will be a reception at the Army and Navy Club at which important army and navy dignitaries will be present.

I NOTE that Boston will be represented at the wedding of Miss Elinor Branscombe Milner and Thomas Stillwell Lamont which takes place next Saturday at Rochester, N. Y., the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Miner.

Of the girls going on from Boston as bridesmaids are the Misses Cornelia Hallowell, Laura Taylor and Eleanor Winslow, while Frank C. Cabot also of Boston, goes over to join the ushers' corps.

The groom, who graduated from Harvard with the class of '21, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont of New York. His sister, Miss Eleanor Lamont, will attend the bride, a Farmington graduate, as maid of honor.

MR. AND MRS. TUCKER Daland have joined the Boston colony at Camden, S. C., where they are staying at the Hobkirk Inn.

TRAVEL BRIEFS

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

Walter R. Eastman, since 1917 New England general agent, passenger department of the Grand Trunk—Canadian National—Central Vermont Railways system, has been appointed assistant general passenger agent of the same system with headquarters at Chicago. He will leave Boston today to assume his new duties. W. J. Gilkerson of the Minneapolis office will succeed Mr. Eastman at the local office. He will arrive here in a week or ten days.

A number of representatives of the offline passenger agencies tendered Mr. Eastman a testimonial luncheon at the City Club on Saturday, and presented him with a handsome clock as evidence of the high esteem in which he is held by his associates in the passenger traffic business.

GOLF CLUB ORGANIZES

The annual meeting of the Boston Traffic Golf Club was held during the week at Young's Hotel. About 100 members were in attendance. S. W. Manning, general agent, Santa Fe system, was re-elected president, and W. T. Lyman of the Wabash Lines re-elected secretary. The date of the first tournament was set for May 1, and the members will probably play at the Framingham Golf Club.

ROCK ISLAND'S NEW EQUIPMENT.

In preparation for the increased business expected this Summer and Fall, the Rock Island lines have purchased, and will take delivery during April to August, 60 Mikado and 20 mountain type locomotives, 50 steel suburban cars, 500 coal cars, 500 box cars, 500 automobile cars, 200 refrigerator cars and 250 flat cars, a total of 2,000 new cars.

AGENTS' LADIES' NIGHT.

The annual "Ladies' Night" of the Association of Railroad and Steamboat Agents of Boston was held Friday evening at Hotel Somerset. Following a dinner, entertainment was provided under the direction of F. W. Briggs, vice-president, followed by dancing and whist. George W. Hammond, president, and W. M. Macomber, secretary, were in charge of the arrangements.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS' CONCLAVE.

The triennial committee of the Grand Encampment, Knights Templar, has selected the Pennsylvania, Burlington and Northern Pacific as the official route for the Grand Master's train to the triennial conclave of the Grand Encampment of Knights, U. S. A., to be held in Seattle in 1925.

This train will carry the grand master, officers and members of the grand encampment and their ladies. It is expected that escort and special trains will follow the same route, in addition to the hospitality extended by members en route, there will be many novel entertainment features, including a sight-seeing tour of Yellowstone National Park and a daylight ride through the Cascade Range.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR COAST LINE.

To care for the increased business induced by the territory which it serves, and to overcome retrenchments made during the period of the war, the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad has embarked upon an improvement and new equipment program which will involve an outlay of approximately $25,000,000.

The principal items involved in this expenditure include enlarged station facilities; shops and shop equipment; 20,000 tons of 100-pound rail; grade reductions; double tracking between Richmond, Va., and Jacksonville, Fla., including automatic signals and interlocking plants; additional yards, yard tracks and passing tracks; and new equipment comprising 94 locomotives, 101 steel passenger cars, and 8,331 freight cars.

All of this equipment is expected to be ready for use by November 1, of this year.

CRAFTSMEN'S BERMUDA EXCURSION.

Members of the Boston Club of Printing House Craftsmen, their wives and friends, 300 strong, will leave Boston next Saturday on the Furness-Withy liner Fort Hamilton for a week's trip to Bermuda. Many men prominent in the printing, publishing, paper and allied industries will be in the party. The liner has been chartered especially for this trip.

At Bermuda the program will include dancing parties, concerts, drives, bathing, golf and visits to Devil's Hole, Crystal Cove and other places of interest.

HAVERHILL CAFE FIRE CAUSES $14,000 LOSS

Haverhill, April 9.—The Pekin, a Chinese restaurant on the second floor at No. 149 Merrimack street, was burned out and stores in the block damaged by smoke and water in a $14,000 fire today.

Estimated damage was: The Pekin, $7,000; McCann Furniture Co., $3,000; Crown Confectionery Co., $2,000; H. M. Noyes Jewelry Store, $500; L. J. Eno Jewelry Store, $500; W. C. Tuck, stationer, $500; Varney Photograph Studio, $700.

The fire started in the restaurant kitchen, the firemen reported.

CATHOLIC WEEKLY TO COMBAT KU KLUX

Catholic laymen in the United States, incorporated as the Calvert Associates, will publish this Fall a weekly review in an effort to combat the Ku Klux Klan, the Oregon educational bill, and the many attacks on Catholic dogmas which appear in many of the secular magazines in the United States today, according to Professor H. Lord of the department of history, Harvard University, in an address at the communion breakfast of the Catholic Alumni Sodality of Boston.

It is the plan of the Calvert Associates to publish in this weekly review the official Catholic opinion on all matters pertaining to the school, political and economic questions of the day. Contributors will be drawn from the most prominent Catholic laymen in America and abroad. Hilaire Belloc and G. K. Chesterton have been appointed contributing editors.

RAISE $1,200 DEFENCE FUND FOR BOGAN

With a "defense fund" of over $1,500 already raised and more in prospect, the fight for "Eddie" Bogan, convicted murderer, has taken on a new lease of life.

Friends from all walks of life, including members of the prohibition enforcement squad, lawyers, clerks and others employed at the Federal Building, have rallied to the support of the former dry sleuth, who faces life in prison for the murder of Joseph Sequeira.

Every cent raised by this fund will be thrown into the battle for a new trial for Bogan, to pay legal fees and other incidental expenses, ready for early Summer showing.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

WHILE other girls with straight hair are moaning because it is not curly and spending money to have it marcelled and permanent-waved, Marion Davies is spending an hour every day oiling and brushing her locks in order to take out the beautiful wave. As "Pat" O'Day, in her next Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York," Miss Davies appears as a young boy. She has had her blonde hair cut in a short bob. To make her appear even more boyish she insists on it being perfectly straight. This takes considerable time, as Miss Davies has been blessed with natural curls. By persistent oiling and patient brushing, however, she achieves the necessary result. She makes a most attractive and appealing "Pat."

LONG TRIP FOR BATH.

CAN you imagine going forty-five miles over the snow in a dog sled to take a bath. This is what Lillian Rich, who is playing the lead in Stronheart's next starring vehicle, "The Phantom Pack," was up against. The company, under Director Laurence Trimble, was working at Lake Louise on location and practically "camping out" in the snow. Miss Rich had to drive her dog team forty-five miles to Banff the headquarters for the company, to find a bath tub and hot water.

GRIFFITH RETURNS.

DAVID W. GRIFFITH and Mrs. Griffith and some of the players who have been filming "The White Rose" in Florida have arrived in New York from Miami via the private car route. In the party were Carol Dempster, Mae Marsh, Ivor Novello, Neil Hamilton and Porter Strong.

Mr. Griffith has been in the South for the last two months, first in western Louisiana and later in Florida, where he leased a studio in Miami. His new picture will be finished at the studios in Mamaroneck and should be ready for early Summer showing.

THREE KILLED IN BATTLE OF IRISH FORCES

Dublin, April 9.—Two Republican and one Free State soldier were killed and four Free Staters injured in a fight near Headford today.

One Free State soldier was wounded when Republicans bombed Glenlarf station.

The general opinion of the Southern Republicans was that it would be impossible to carry on the fight through another Summer. Many leaders declared in favor of continuing, but said they had little hope of eventual victory as the morale of the men had been shaken and they were suffering great privations.

Free State troops attacked a band of Irregulars just as they were preparing to execute before a firing squad Cornelius Hanifin, the railway foreman who was kidnaped at Kerry.

After a fight lasting two hours five of the Irregulars were killed and two captured. Hanifin was rescued.

Free Staters surprised and captured fifteen Irregulars, including a captain, and a large quantity of bombs, guns and ammunition in the suburbs of Dublin.

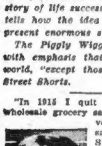
PIGGLY WIGGLY HEAD TELLS OF BIG 'HUNCH'

Just a $27,000,000 "hunch."

That's what the Piggly Wiggly idea was. So was the name itself. Clarence Saunders of Memphis, the Piggly Wiggly man, doesn't know where or how he got the name after the idea hit him. One thing, it didn't come from the source you think it did. Today, in the fifth and final instalment of his own story of life success, Mr. Saunders tells how the idea grew into the present enormous store system.

The Piggly Wiggly man closes with emphasis that he loves the world, "except those —— Wall Street Shorts."

"In 1915 I quit my job as a wholesale grocery salesman and invested my $3,000 savings in the Saunders-Blackburn Grocery Company," Mr. Saunders continues his story.



Clarence Saunders

"I solicited seventy men to buy stock in the enterprise, and by the time I had a capitalization of $23,000 I already had bought merchandise worth $46,000.

"You see, I had people believing that I had money."

By July, 1916, this grocery concern showed a deficit of $6,000 and the stockholders were more than grumbling. Mr. Saunders was convinced he could make the venture pay.

BUYS OUT PARTNERS.

But his partners did not share his hopes, so he arranged to buy them out on the basis of paying for their shares, 20 per cent. down and the balance by February, 1917.

"I borrowed enough money to buy out the stock," he said, "and in the following six months I cleared on my store just $119,000."

This achievement was not as sudden as it appears, he explained. The profits came as a result of the time devoted to building up the business on a narrow earning margin.

This store was liquidated in 1913 with Saunders owning $105,000 of its common stock and $50,000 worth of its preferred stock. At last, he had the foundation for a fortune.

"And I waited for the inspiration for its building," he recalled.

The inspiration, which means the hunch out of which evolved the Piggly Wiggly self-service chain grocery stores, came about in this wise:

"On the train back to Memphis I decided I might as well start a grocery store of my own on a retail plan—a store that would evolve into a chain store scheme.

"The first thing was to choose a name for the store. A thousand or so names flashed through my mind.

HIS INSPIRATION.

"Suddenly, for no reason at all, the name 'Piggly Wiggly' came. I dismissed it with a smile. But the name persisted.

"No, I had not looked out of the window and seen pigs wriggling through turn-stiles. I don't know where the name came. It just came.

"Then I tried to think how I could get along with less clerk expense. Grocery clerks had always been a large cost. I closed my eyes and saw the tiers of merchandise, but everywhere the counters were obstacles.

"It occurred to me to see the store on my mental screen after I had taken the counters away. This time I saw the store much as the Piggly Wiggly establishment looks today.

"Without any counters, passageways between the tiers of shelves naturally materialized in my mind's eye.

"And the self-service scheme had been discovered."

By March, 1917, there were seven stores in Memphis.

"Now," he said, not without a touch of satisfaction, "there are 1,760 Piggly Wiggly stores, worth, with their holding company, $27,000,000.

"In 1919 we broadened our scope and opened a variety store. By October of this year we will have twenty-five of them."

WHAT OF FUTURE.

What of Saunders' future?

"I am forty-two years old," he said, "and I'm not through by any means—except that I'm through with Wall Street.

"Some day, for instance, I propose to own a newspaper. It will be just as much a departure from the regulation newspaper as my Piggly Wiggly stores are different from the standardized groceries.

"I am going on in various business activities—not because I want more money, because I have enough of that to satisfy me for the remainder of my life.

"But I have to keep doing things. I find that I am whipped into everlasting action by a mind that won't stay at rest."

THE END.

Royal Bride

Princess Yolanda.

"Born to be a soldier's bride," the eldest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy was married today to Count Calvi di Bergerio, war hero and captain of cavalry. It was a love match.

PRINCESS WEDS AMID SPLENDOR OF ROYALTY

Rome, April 9 (By the Associated Press).—Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, was married today to Count Calvi di Bergolo, a captain of cavalry who holds a decoration for bravery in the World War.

The civil ceremony, which took place at 10:30 o'clock in the grand hall of the Quirinal Palace, was followed immediately by the celebration of the religious rites in the Pauline Chapel, also within the Quirinal.

BRILLIANT SPECTACLE.

The King and Queen occupied the centre of the mammoth salon, with the bride and bridegroom at the right and the dowager Queen Margherita at the left. Premier Mussolini, acting as the crown notary, came next, while Senator Tittoni, president of the Senate, filled the role of civil officer.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

Princess Yolanda wore the traditional white gown, with train of rare old lace. The flowers in her bouquet were grown in the gardens of the Quirinal Palace.

Count di Bergolo was dressed in the uniform of a cavalry officer. On his breast were the medals he gained in the war.

THE RELIGIOUS CEREMONY.

Senator Tittoni opened the ceremony by reading the articles of the Italian civil code that relate to marriage. He then addressed to the bride and bridegroom the questions required by the ritual, after which the secretary of the Senate read the act of marriage. This was signed first by the bridal pair, then by the King and Queen and lastly by Count di Bergolo's relatives.

When the signatures were affixed the ceremonies arose and were the first to congratulate their daughter-in-law.

After the formal felicitations, the guests found their places in the wedding cortege for the brief journey to the Pauline Chapel which was being used for a religious service for the first time since 1870.

The religious marriage was solemnized by Monsignor Beccaria, the court chaplain, who celebrated mass. The finely proportioned chapel, which has been the scene of so many solemn religious services, was hung with crimson damask trimmed with gold.

BOY CHOIR SINGS.

As the wedding party entered the chapel, the boy choir intoned a Gregorian chant. The bride and bridegroom took places before the altar, kneeling on red cushions, as the King and Queen and the royal princes, proceeded to a royal tribune at the right of the altar.

Mass in honor of the Virgin Mary was then celebrated by Monsignor Beccaria, during the progress of which the choir rendered chants. When the "Our Father" was reached, Monsignor Beccaria offered prayers for the future happiness of the bridal pair, and pronounced the benediction.

FIRST HUSBAND OF SLAIN GIRL IS SOUGHT

New York, April 9.—The police are searching today for the first husband of Mrs. Irene Blandino, who, with her seventeen-year-old companion, Miss Ethel Phillips, was found slain in a lonely section of Staten Island. The solution of the tragedy, it is believed, will be found in Mrs. Blandino's varied life.

Ethel Phillips is regarded as an accidental victim. She was killed because she happened to be with Mrs. Blandino. The news that Mrs. Blandino had three husbands was told to the police by her brother, Joseph Salerno of Utica. He said, although his sister had married three times, she had never obtained a divorce from her first husband. Her first husband left her two months after their marriage. She then went to Jersey City and married Frank Bongiovanni, and after he was killed by a jealous Sicilian, she became the wife of James Blandino, a barber, who is under arrest.

Rosario de Lorenzo, a barber in the shop owned by Blandino, is also being held on a manslaughter charge. The police admit they have little evidence against the men.

The Utica police have been asked to try to locate Mrs. Blandino's first husband in that city.

Blandino told the police that he knew his wife and the other girl had been going about Jersey City with other men, but he said he was not able to give the police the names of any of their companions.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentino will present their dancing act as a feature of two giant danasants to be given on that day. The popular Valentino is making a tour of New England cities and is limited to a single day in Boston.

BRAINTREE BANDITS ROUTED BY BULLETS

Braintree, April 9.—Three men, discovered in an attempt to break into the shoe factory of C. B. Slater, South Braintree, fled to escape the bullets sent after them by the night watchman.

The watchman discovered the trio trying to break in a door at the rear of the plant, threw up a window, and yelled.

Police search found no trace of them. This is the factory from which Frederick Parmenter and Berandio Bardarelli, shot to death in the $15,000 payroll robbery, left April 16, 1920. These are the murderers for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted.

RECORD IS BROKEN BY PAPER INDUSTRY

New York, April 9.—Production of paper during February of this year was the largest of any February in the history of the industry, according to W. J. Raybold, president of the American Paper & Pulp Association.

FIFTH AVENUE CLUB RAID YIELDS RUM

New York, April 9.—Twenty-eight cases of liquor were seized in a raid on a private club in the exclusive 38th street district and three employes were arrested. Names of dozens of men and women in evening dress were taken by the prohibition officers. The liquor is said to have come from a warehouse.

ONE PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS 850 NEBULAE

A telescopic photograph made with the powerful 24-inch Bruce telescope by Harvard astronomers at Arequipa, Peru, shows the unusually high total of 850 nebulae in a photographed area of approximately thirty square degrees, according to a report received at Harvard College. The photographic plate was exposed six hours. The nebulae are distinct, the fainter ones being almost exclusively oval or circular in form, the brighter ones elongated or spiral in structure, the report says.

The Nth Commandment
by Fannie Hurst
YOU'VE waited two years for a real-life picture as big as "Humoresque." Here it is!
A story of a pretty shop-girl, her hard working husband—and the lounge-lizard who wanted to show her a good time.

TELLS HOW DRUG PEDLARS PREY ON CRAVING

By JUANITA HANSEN

My adventure of the night before had brought me two-eighths of heroin.

For a few days I was able to proceed with my work. But I knew that this amount would not last me very long. I must find another PEDLAR! Where? How?

Again I felt the magnetic power of that strange, indefinable something I mentioned before—like the power of a magnet. I was to meet someone who was to lead me on.

Pedlar in Luxury

That afternoon I was walking down Fifth avenue. I ran into a young lady I had met in California during the year when I attended only "parties." I recognized her as one of the fraternity, only she was one of the fortunates who thought she was able to play with drugs.

But today she is bound more tightly than anyone I know to the cursed chain of victims of narcotics. The day I met her on the avenue she had all of youth's bloom.

After a bare word of greeting I asked her if she knew where I could get more drugs. Casually as though I'd asked her for a bon bon, she said laughingly:

"Certainly, I know a man up town. Let's get in a taxi. I will take you there."

You readers probably will be surprised when I tell you we drove to a very exclusive residential district up near the park.

It was an apartment on the main floor of a substantial looking house. The apartment itself was very nicely furnished. One would hardly expect to find a dealer in narcotic drugs living here. But, as I told you once before, this deadly blight is no respecter of persons.

A pedlar may be living next door to you. Who knows?

They are not in the habit of putting their shingles out!

We went in. The man himself admitted us. He was a foreigner. In my experience with the pedlars I can safely say that 75 per cent. of them are foreigners.

After the introduction, a few words exchanged during which I was carefully scrutinized by the man, he asked in broken and ungrammatical English that revealed him a stranger to the apparent culture of his surroundings:

"Watcha want?"

I told him I wanted morphine.

He quoted me a price of $80 an ounce which was quite agreeable. This "reasonable price" however didn't last long when he discovered his new customer was Juanita Hansen, the picture star. A few weeks later, when I went back to get the second ounce, I heard the self-same tale I had heard from the pedlar before. His new shipment had not arrived and he had promised the only ounce he had left to someone else for $95. I knew no other place to buy, so I bid $100 and got it.

One day while visiting the girl from California, who at that time had a gorgeous apartment, I told her how hard I was working. I told her I had increased the amount of morphine, but it seemed to have lost its charm.

In the morning I was so tired it required all my strength to dress myself for the studio, and it was with great effort that I managed to get through my strenuous work.

Turns to Cocaine

Did she know anything that could help me? Oh, yes! She would give me something then and there. It was COCAINE.

Behold, the worst of all the devil's plaything!

COCAINE!

She had a small package in her apartment. I had never heard of this narcotic drug before. That very day I had been working and was very tired. One little sniff of cocaine and I felt better, so I thought, than I had ever felt in my life. Exhilaration itself! Cocaine takes effect immediately.

The devil had planted another seed!

I left my friend's apartment with but one thought. I must purchase some of that wonderful elixir-cocaine. I was then bound direct to my pedlar.

Sneers at Victim

I found him at home and he gladly sold me an ounce for $100. I think he smiled and almost sneered when he sold me this, for he knew now that I would be more tightly bound than ever to the cursed chain!

The combination of morphine and cocaine is the most deadly, most destructive of all narcotics. My pedlar knew this added step in my descent meant more money to him. That was his business—money. What cared he?

With the help of my new toy it was no longer hard for me to dress in the morning or work long hours at the studio. A shot of cocaine, then a shot of morphine—and off to the studio. Perhaps a couple of shots before luncheon, three in the afternoon, and then home.

Cocaine has a tendency to keep one awake, in fact, it does keep one awake. It is impossible to sleep while under its influence. Therefore, at night, when it was time for me to retire, I had to increase the amount of morphine to offset the cocaine I had taken all day.

In Dealer's Web

Cocaine itself is the most destructive of all narcotics. Perhaps because it is so powerful. With one shot all the tired feeling would leave me. But it was also destroying my appetite. I was losing weight. And it was affecting my appearance.

As soon as cocaine really had gotten hold of me and my dealer was sure of it the price was boosted again. Now I was paying $125 an ounce for morphine and $150 an ounce for cocaine.

The amount of cocaine I used increased, until I took enough to kill two horses every day! An ounce lasted me only a week. Ask any doctor what that means!

Can we permit this monster, DOPE, to run at large any longer? Stop it, I say!

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

TARBETT CHOSEN CHIEF MARSHAL

At a meeting of the Suffolk County councils of the American Legion and Spanish War veterans, Walter R. Tarbett, prominent veteran of the Spanish American and World Wars, was chosen chief marshal of the annual Memorial Day exercises to be conducted by both organizations at Fenway Park, Sunday, May 27. Tentative plans were made for this year's services.

"R. M." IS SUICIDE AT ST. ALBANS, VT

St. Albans, Vt., April 9.—The initials "R. M." engraved on his watch are the only clue to the identity of a well-dressed man, about fifty years old, who shot and killed himself in the railroad station here. It is believed he was one of two men refused admittance to Canada pending investigation.

ORIGINAL JAZZ BAND TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

The Original Dixieland Jazz Band, favorites of two continents, headliners in big time vaudeville, composers of their own toe-tinkling melodies, and the actual creators of the first jazz record ever made for the phonograph, will inaugurate their first New England tour with a concert and tea dance at the Copley-Plaza Hotel on the afternoon of Saturday, April 14.

That same evening they will give a public dance at Mechanics Hall, under the appropriate title of a "Jezzine Jazz Jubilee," when the Original Dixieland Jazz Band will be augmented with the Broadway Syncopated Orchestra, providing continuous dancing.

A big feature of the evening will be a fox trot contest, the winning couple, selected by popular approval, to be presented with the handsome Dixieland silver trophy.

No dance orchestra extant—not even the famous Paul Whiteman's—whom the Original Dixieland Jazz Band antedate by several years as recognized performers and star record makers of the Victor brand—enjoys the reputation here and abroad as does this group of eccentric, modern magicians of melody, who first interpreted to a waiting and appreciative world of dance devotees the peculiar syncopation of the humble worker of the New Orleans levees, and made nations love it.

'I LOVED YOU,' SOBS SLAYER IN HER CELL

Newcastle, Pa., April 9.—Mrs. Josephine Best, twenty-four years old, was charged with murder in connection with the death of Carl Dufford, vice-president of the Dufford Furniture Company.

He was shot last Thursday and died Sunday. When Mrs. Best learned he was dead she flung herself against the steel door of her cell sobbing:

"I loved you Carl, I didn't mean to hurt you."

In explaining the shooting, she said:

"I knew he was married but he overwhelmed me with his attention. I became enamored and I could not give him up.

"He said he would divorce his wife to marry me. He was wonderful for a year and then he threw me down.

"He told me he would have to choose between love and money making and he would take money making.

"I was wild when his attorney called me up and said our relations would have to stop. I went to a store, bought a pistol and shot him. I hardly knew what I was doing."

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, April 7th, on shipments sold out, ranged from 8.00 cents to 14.60 cents per pound and averaged 12.52 cents per pound."—Adv.

Another Girl Is Wooed From Follies to the Altar

New York, April 9.—Another Ziegfeld Follies girl has been coaxed before the altar and made to take the vow to love, honor and obey.

The ceremony was performed in the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Newton is a graduate of the University of Mines. He had known Miss Weeks for several years, but their romance developed as the result of a chance meeting in Havana last January.

PAPA SAM'S IN THE JAILHOUSE. MAMA IDA'S ON HER WAY to occupy an adjoining cell. What is to become of Minnie and Anna, Sarah and Gertie? A heavy responsibility rests on the shoulders of Jake, the Umbrella Man.

ORPHANS OF THE STORM—

Minnie and Anna, Sarah and Gertie—poor little ones.

They are orphans of the storm of liquor enforcement. Papa Sam's in the hoosegow and there's a nice cell there waiting for Mama Ida.

Prohibition has brought with it many strange by-products; a revival of piracy; a new and numerous clan of purveyors to those who thirst; a new source of fat income to the grafting politician and police official. Dr. Hyde motorboats become Mr. Jeekyl rum-runners. The bartender who died is reincarnated in the physician who gets writer's cramp filling out prescription blanks. The saloon is gone, but there's a drug store on the corner.

Let me tell you about the Balzmans.

Sam Balzman owns a tailor shop on Andrews street in Lynn. A hock-shop on one side and a grocery store on the other. Everybody on the street knows and likes Sam the Tailor and his wife, Ida. They came there years ago and started to press pants and raise children. They were industrious. They saved their money. They bought a house. They acquired a mortgage.

All around them they began to sense the fact that neighbors who had formerly shown acute signs of poverty began to blossom out with mysteriously-acquired wealth. The pawnbroker was doing it. The grocer was doing it. The butcher was doing it.

Sam the Tailor Began Doing It

Sam the Tailor began doing it. For one pair of pants, pressed in his hot shop, 25 cents. For one small bottle of booze, which cost $2, Sam found he could get $4, sometimes $5. The painter was doing it. The candy store man was doing it. The fruit pedlar was doing it. A new pair of shoes for Baby Minnie. A new frock for Anna. A coat for Sarah. A coat for Gertie. And the mortgage dwindled. If this wasn't the millennium, it was a pretty good imitation. Utopia on Andrews street. Sam the Tailor began to read automobile catalogs. The Land of Opportunity . . . here comes a customer, Ida. He looks thirsty.

Sam went along famously until one day they pitched him. Three months and a fine of $300. There was a fund put aside to pay the mortgage. Ida paid Sam's fine, kissed him goodbye and told him not to worry—Jake could help at the store. Jake is Jacob Debrow, who rents a small space in the back of Sam's store.

It was not the millennium. Who said the Land of Opportunity? The mortgage fund was shot.

Then Jake was pinched for selling booze.

The judge had been lenient with Ida. He told her she wouldn't have to start her three months' term until Sam got out, but Ida was sore perplexed. During her period of grace she was tempted again. And again she was arrested. Another sentence. Three more months. Another fine. The same $300.

Mortgage Money Gone in Fines

Now she has to sell her house. But how can she sell it when she's in jail? Jake got off with a fine of $125. No jail for Jake.

Again the judge was lenient with Ida.

"Get somebody to take care of the children," he said. "You can have a few days to make arrangements. After that you'll have to serve your term. The law must be obeyed."

Ida wants a housekeeper to take care of her four children—Ida and Anna, Sarah and Gertie—orphans of the storm. She can't pay much, because the $900 she has paid out in fines was all she had—all she and Sam had made bootlegging, and then some.

Minnie and Anna, Sarah and Gertie—they weep. They are not bootleggers.

Cambridge Gas Station Employe Reports Loss of $148

Albert G. Harrington telephoned the Cambridge police today that he had been held up and robbed of $148 in the Socony gasoline station on the Charles River Parkway, near the Larz Anderson bridge.

Harrington, who lives at No. 6 Centre street, Hough's Neck, is employed at the station.

When policemen arrived on the motor patrol in response to his telephone call, Harrington told them he was counting the Sunday "gas" receipts. He had the money on top of the station safe.

The first thing he knew a man's voice behind him said:

Harrington put up his hands. Then the man back of him reached forward under one of his arms, clutched the money on the safe and dashed out.

Harrington said he did not get a look at the man enough to tell whether the robber was black or white. He did not know whether the robber had a revolver; none was jammed against his back.

FLAYS LEAGUE FOR IGNORING "THE FOOL"

New York, April 9.—Channing Pollock, playwright, whose current play, "The Fool," was not included in the list of fourteen dramas recently selected as the year's best by the sign post committee of the Drama League, waxed bitterly sarcastic when he addressed the organization's members and their guests at the annual dinner.

As toastmaster, his hearers were inclined to smile as he started his talk with humorous allusions to the choice of the sign post committee. But as he progressed with growing sarcasm the laughter died and his talk ended in expressive silence.

"Although I have produced twenty-four pieces in New York, not one has ever been a sign post play," he said. "Fundamentally, I am opposed to the Drama League idea that the proof of the pudding is that nobody wants to eat it. Apparently, the league thinks that it is with plays as with people, that the good die young.

"Nine of the fourteen on the sign post are no longer with us. Two of the remaining ones are tottering and three of them were by Shakespeare, a recent discovery of the Drama League. All the rest of them betray a leaning toward Norway and Russia."

He continued: "The two greatest dangers to the American theatre today are the highbrows and the low brows, the highbrows are those who are educated beyond their capacity, and the lowbrows have no capacity. My organization that sign posts 'Pasteur' (Henry Miller's current play) and ignores 'The Fool' is futile and ridiculous."

The sign post plays are "Loyalties," "R. U. R.," "Six Characters in Search of an Author," "The World We Live In," "Rain," "Hamlet," "The Merchant of Venice," "A Square Peg," the Moscow Art Theatre's productions, "Romeo and Juliet," "Mary the Third," "Peer Gynt," "Icebound," and "Pasteur."

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR H. E. FARROW

Full military honors will be paid Herbert E. Farrow, former sergeant of D Company, 101st Engineers, 26th Division, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the West Somerville Congregational Church, from where the funeral services will be held. Sergeant Farrow died Saturday at his home, No. 22 Conwet avenue, West Somerville, after a long illness from gas poisoning received in the war. Tonight members of the West Somerville Post will conduct services at their late comrade's home.

HOUSEKEEPER KILLS EMPLOYER ASLEEP

Richwood, W. Va., April 9 (By International News Service).—Mrs. Ruth Green, thirty-five, divorcee, is held in the city jail here today charged with murder in shooting and killing Holly Gates, forty, for whom she acted as housekeeper. According to the story she told police, the couple quarreled lately. Gates, she said, had charged her with being friendly with another man, which she stoutly denied. She told police she got up to get breakfast Sunday and saw Gates asleep. She got a shotgun, put the muzzle of the gun against Gates' body and pulled the trigger.

KIDNAPED CHILDREN FOUND BY MOTHER

The four weeks' search of Mrs. Letitia Bent of Cliftondale for her two children, Harold, four years old, and Roberta, six, who had been taken by their father when he found them playing in a Cliftondale yard, was ended when Mrs. Bent found the children in Saugus and took them with her. Bent appealed to the police to restore his children to him, without success. He was told that in view of the circumstances of the separation of the parents, the mother had an equal claim to the children.

PROFESSIONAL MEN KEEP OUT OF JAIL

Ossining, N. Y., April 9.—If keeping out of Sing Sing prison shows a man to be good, then morality is high among the professions. Not one of the 1,457 prisoners admitted in 1922 was a professional man, according to Dr. Amos C. Squire, prison physician. The inmates included 79 clerks, 56 tailors, 48 salesmen, 46 chauffeurs, 45 cooks, 42 waiters, 35 longshoremen, 31 auto mechanics and 21 barbers.

NEGRO UNABLE TO TELL OWN NAME

An unidentified negro, about thirty-five years old, wandering aimlessly about Roxbury, was taken to Psychopathic Hospital when police failed to obtain an intelligent reply to queries as to the man's name, home or other questions asked in an effort to identify him. He is five feet four inches tall and weighs 140 pounds. He wore a dark mixed overcoat, gray cap and black shoes.

REAL STORY TOLD

We reproduce herewith the front pages of the Boston American and that of the Boston Traveler of Saturday, showing that the American was the one paper to print the real story of the men found drowned in Vineyard Sound.

The American prints the NEWS, not theories.

Speaking of scoops—

No day passes without the American getting at least ONE exclusive news beat. Saturday all the afternoon papers printed stories concerning the disappearance of Cashier Farnham and $20,000 of Mutual Life funds. Where did they get this story? Out of the earlier editions of the Boston American.

As we have stated before, there are two ways to get news—to dig it up, and to copy it.

The American—three cents and worth it.

TWO ROXBURY DRUG STORES ARE ROBBED

Two more burglaries in Roxbury drug stores, similar to recent ones in which drug addicts were suspected, were reported today to police of the Dudley Street Station.

Four men who were riding around Roxbury in an automobile are suspected.

The drug stores of Leon Aronovich at No. 261 Warren street and of Henry & Hancock, No. 2706 Washington street were entered. In each case the front door lock was forced.

The burglars stole a total of $7.50 in cash and possibly store stock. Checkup on the stocks is being made to see if any drugs or other property was taken.

Captain Fitzgerald of Dudley street has detailed men on the two jobs.

CALVE TO TRAIN "UNKNOWN" SINGER

New York, April 9.—To train under the guidance and tuteiage of Emma Calve, Miss Lucille Nellson, an unknown voice student from Charleston, S. C., was to sail on the White Star liner Pittsburgh for France today.

Emma Calve

Madame Calve never heard of Miss Nellson until March 30 last when she asked a hearing. The prima donna became so convinced that the girl has a voice of rare promise that she at once arranged to send Miss Nellson to France. After the Summer with Calve, Miss Nellson will remain abroad for another year under teachers to be selected by Calve.

Warmer Tomorrow

Fair and colder weather is promised by the Weather Man for tonight, while for tomorrow fair weather and rising temperatures are promised. There will be variable winds.

GIRL OF 17, DEFIANT, ELOPES

Daughter of Manufacturer Has Fled With Employe in Father's Plant

The police are scouring the city for clews to the whereabouts of seventeen-year-old Mary Abizaid, daughter of a glove manufacturer, who defied the objections of her parents and disappeared Saturday with Phillip Abdenour, an employer in her father's plant.

The elopement followed an attempt by the girl's father, L. G. Abizaid, to keep the couple, who have been meeting for some time, apart. The manufacturer refused to consent to the marriage of the two and threatened Abdenour with discharge if he continued to see his daughter.

The girl was employed as forewoman in her father's plant at No. 2 Edinboro street. Abdenour has been employed as a cutter in the factory for four years and has known the girl since childhood.

The girl's relatives believe the couple are living in the South End or Back Bay.

Abizaid declared he will ask for a warrant for Abdenour's arrest as his daughter's abductor, as the girl is not yet of age.

Abdenour is twenty-nine years old and lived at a Warrenton street lodging house. The girl is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes. She wore a green coat, blue dress and black low shoes and black stockings when last seen.

ALLEGED FORGER CAUGHT IN STATION

Walter J. O'Neill, alias William McKay, of New York, wanted in several cities for forgery and larceny, was arrested in North Station by Special Officers Russell and Holmes of the Joy street police station. He was recognized by lameness due to an artificial foot.

Forty certified checks, ten of them made out for $50 and $75, and thirty of them blank, were found on his person. Several rolls of bills and a quantity of narcotics were found in his hand baggage. He is known to be wanted in Suffolk County, Schenectady, Providence and several Western cities for forgery and larceny.

GIRL RETURNS HOME, YOUTH ARRESTED

Templeton, April 9.—The story of Sarah Rumrill, fourteen years old, told after she walked home after being missing three days, resulted in the arrest of Ernest LeBlanc, seventeen years old, in Fitchburg on serious charge. The police say the girl went away in an automobile with Flora LeClair and five others. She says she spent one night in Fitchburg and another in Boston.

AIRPLANE BURSTS INTO FLAMES, 1 DEAD

Los Angeles, April 9.—When Edward Malone, twenty-four years old, a pilot, and Herschel McKee, his mechanic, started a flight here their airplane burst into flames when they reached an altitude of 200 feet. The pilot was killed when the plane crashed. McKee jumped and was probably fatally injured.

Lynn Man Stabbed

Lynn, April 9.—Mike Marcino, No. 132 Blossom street, was stabbed in the arm during an altercation with a neighbor. He was taken to Lynn Hospital, where it was said his wound is not serious. Joseph Bonis was arrested in connection with the cutting, on a charge of assault.

ELOPES WITH ONE OF PAPA'S EMPLOYES

Daughter of a glove manufacturer, Miss Abizaid vanished with one of her father's employes. Police are hunting the pair in the South End and Back Bay districts, for it is believed they have not left Boston.

NEGRO COPS ARE BEATEN BY MOB

Responding to a riot call, six policemen of the East Dedham street station, headed by Sergeant Winn, arrived at Massachusetts and Columbus avenues, where they found two colored policemen being beaten by a mob of fifty white men.

Lucian Banks and Harvey B. Yates, their uniforms virtually ripped from their backs and minus their police badges, which had been torn from their clothing and hurled away, were in a helpless condition when the rescue squad appeared.

Earlier, when Banks and Yates had attempted to arrest two youths for intoxication, the white men resented their treatment of the prisoners and pounced on the policemen.

Booked on a charge of assault, two men brought to the station gave their names as William Pitts, twenty-nine years old, and Preston Pitts, twenty-one years old. They claimed to be brothers and to reside at No. 101 Chelsea street, Charlestown.

A doctor sewed up a two-inch wound in William's forehead. The younger brother received injuries to his chin.

BURGLAR IS NABBED BY MAN AND SON

Overpowered after a stiff battle, William N. Hill, twenty-five years old and colored, was captured in the home of Philip Levine, No. 144 Bryant street, Malden, by Levine and his son and turned over to the police. Screams of the women in the house were the first alarm that a burglar was on the premises. Hill ran from room to room, finally hiding under a bed.

2 DEAD, 2 HURT, IN MOTORCYCLE CRASHES

Two persons were killed and two persons were injured in motorcycle collisions which wrecked the machines. A third collision resulted only in a severe shaking up for the cyclist.

Kenneth Malcolm, No. 22 Walden street, for four years a clerk in the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, was killed when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile driven by Thomas F. Kelley, eighteen years old, No. 114 Rindge avenue, Cambridge.

He was hurled against a curb, fracturing his skull. He died while being taken to Cambridge City Hospital. His brother, Harold, riding behind him, escaped with a few body bruises. Kelley was arrested on charges of manslaughter, not making himself known after an accident and driving without a license. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Charley John of Somerville was instantly killed when the motorcycle he was driving crashed into a stone wall at Lawrence. His companion, John Brown, also of Somerville, suffered several fractures. He was taken to a Lawrence hospital, where it is thought he will recover.

George H. McKinley, No. 6 Hooper street, Chelsea, escaped injury when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Dennis Smith, No. 212 Bennington street, East Boston. The accident occurred at Bennington and Brooks street.

PORTLAND'S RECORD SNOW FALL GONE

Portland, Me., April 9.—Twelve feet and three inches of snow, which fell here, establishing a record extending back more than half a century, has nearly disappeared today. Only traces remained in shady spots.

GIVES UP WHEN CAR KILLS MAN

Abner Sherwin Surrenders After Accident in Roxbury

A man who was hit at midnight by an automobile driven by young Abner E. Sherwin of No. 260 Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton, died at City Hospital today.

He is twenty-one years old and son of Mark Sherwin, vice-president of Stone Bros. & Sherwin Company, wool dealers at No. 176 Federal street.

The accident occurred on Seaver street, near Humboldt avenue, Roxbury. The car, driven by Sherwin, is his own. The victom was crossing the street when hit. His skull was fractured.

The dead man was about forty-two years old, six feet tall, weighed 190 pounds, had dark complexion and dark hair, blue eyes and smooth face.

In one of his pockets was found a Tremont Trust Company certificate made out to Andrew Sweeney of No. 3 Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park. The police found that Mr Sweeney died a year ago. They hoped, however, to be able to trace the identity of the automobile victim through the Sweeney certificate.

The identity of the operator of an automobile which struck and probably fatally injured six-year-old Arnold Kaufman on Washington street, South End, opposite the Columbia Theatre, has not yet been found.

Following the accident the child arose and continued home apparently uninjured. The child's father, Morris Kaufman, of No. 18 Compton street, South End, later took the boy to the City Hospital where he was found to have a fractured skull.

Mrs. J. Rogers, forty-eight years old, of No. 1 Glenwood street, Malden, was struck and run over by an automobile at Exeter and Marlboro streets. Although a wheel of the car passed over her body, she suffered only severe bruises.

Joseph Manhein, thirty-eight years old, of No. 425 Warren street, Roxbury, was struck by an automobile on Columbus avenue, Roxbury. The automobile was operated by Herbert J. Langlois. At the City Hospital it was found Manhein suffered a fractured left hip.

In an attempt to avoid a collision with another automobile, William J. Hanlin of No. 87 Bowen street, South Boston, drove his automobile on the sidewalk at Florence and Washington streets, South End, and struck and seriously injured two pedestrians, a man and a woman.

The injured persons were removed to the City Hospital. They are: Miss Marie Kingston, sixty-three years old, a nurse, of No. 54 Montgomery street, South End, and Samuel Bernhart, thirty-eight years old, of No. 63 Farragut road, South Boston. Miss Kingston suffered concussion of the brain and cuts and bruises about the head and body. Bernhart suffered cuts and bruises about the body and a deep scalp wound.

NOTED HANDLER DIES AT VANDERBILT FARM

Newport, R. I., April 9.—Robert J. Gibson, probably the best-known handler of stallions in the show rings of the country, was found dead in the training stable of Reginald C. Vanderbilt this morning. Mr. Gibson was brought from London years ago by E. V. Jordan, and since then his showing of noted horses in hand has been one of the leading attractions at most every horse show of consequence in the United States.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

O'DOWD IN BAD SHAPE

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion boxer of the world, is suffering from a primary lateral sclerosis of the spinal cord which affects the use of one of his legs. The St. Paul fighter consulted physicians at the Mayo clinic.

AMATEURS BATTLE FOR NATIONAL RING TITLES AT ARENA

BRILLIANT BOUTS ARE ON FOR TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

The greatest array of amateur boxers to ever battle for the national titles will be on hand when the title tournament opens at the Boston Arena at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The rival mitt men will probably continue battling into the small hours of tomorrow morning. The semi-final and final matches will be decided tomorrow evening.

The army of almon-pure glove wielders has been gathered from every section of the country. They hail from the Pacific Coast, the Middle West, South and from the East.

It will be a meeting between the class of the amateur boxers. Those who gain the honors in the final test of science, speed, punching power, courage and brains will, indeed, be national champions.

The committee in charge of the tournament made a wise move when it decided to open festivities at 5 o'clock this afternoon. This will make it unnecessary for the contestants to go forth to battle as the sun struggles above the horizon tomorrow morning.

There is intense interest in this year's bouts. It is expected that a greater crowd will be on hand for the title contests than has ever turned out for a similar series of contests.

You will see some real classy boys in action. You will also get genuine action without the bunk that often goes with the professional sport.

Tom Kanaly of the B. A. A. will be in charge of affairs tonight and tomorrow night. Tom will be assisted by Billy Cuddy, Bill Prout and the other leaders in amateur sport.

Kotsonaros and Caiza Will Produce Thrills.

The wrestlers will go into the Boston Arena on Thursday night. The Old Howard management has billed an international card that should furnish an abundance of action.

George Caiza, Italian champion, will have George Kotsonaros, Greek champion, as an opponent in the feature tussle. As this match will be to a finish, best two falls out of three, the fans will have a winner and a loser. Kotsonaros refused to wrestle the Italian under any other conditions. Kotsonaros has recently outpointed Caiza in a handicap event and feels confident he will do even better Thursday night. He says he will win by two straight falls and thus avenge the defeat of Jimmy Landos.

Stanley Stasiak, great Polish wrestler, will meet some worthy opposition when he battles Mike Parish, giant Austrian, in another bout.

Frank Tusko, Lithuanian champion, will get plenty of action when he mingles with Justiana Silva, Portuguese champion, while Jack McGrath, Irish title holder, will have to display all of his ability or lose to Lawson Pinkham of Attleboro.

As the Arena can seat 10,000 persons there will be ample accommodations for all who wish to take in this show.

Armory A. A. Will Be Dark This Week.

Ivey Lewis announces that the Armory A. A. will not stage a show this week and it does not wish to conflict with the national amateur championships. The Triple A's next show will be held a week from tomorrow night. Lewis, who is making the matches in the absence of Alex McLean, has his lines cut out for an attractive bout.

The next professional show will be staged at the Boston Arena a week from tonight under the direction of the Arena A. C.

EGG AND PARTNER WIN SIX-DAY RACE

Paris, April 9.—Egg and Van Kempen, the Swiss-Dutch team were declared the winners in the annual six-day bicycle race which began last Monday night. They scored 1,131 points.

Second place went to Chardon and Vandenhove, and third to Perayn and Vandervelde.

Grenda and McNamara the "An Australian team," favorites at the start of the race, finished in seventh place, on lap behind the winners, with 536 points. The victors in the race covered 3,626 kilometers (2253.13 miles).

Eddie Madden and Jake Magin, the "All-American team," were fined 300 francs for pacing Egg and Van Kempen in the riding in which they won back the last lap.

DOCTOR ORDERS WILLARD NOT TO BOX

By BILLY McCARNEY

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 9.—Jess Willard's intention to resume boxing today was upset when Dr. Baird forbade him to don the gloves until the last part of the week.

Although Jess' arm is O. K. apparently and does not bother him when shadow boxing or punching the bag, the medical man, who specialises in muscular injuries, deems it advisable to give the arm more rest so that there will be no occurrence of the painful hurt from a bump or punch when boxing.

Willard is showing good results from his road work. He tipped the beam, after being rubbed down, at 246 pounds. This is more satisfactory and is proof positive of the hard grilling to which Willard subjects himself.

The best witness that Willard is Harry Drake, his English sparring partner, who makes the daily hike with the big fellow. In his whole ring career, Drake says, he never knew a man who did such rigorous work as Willard does. Jess has given Drake an entirely different view of training work from what the Englishman had when he left his native heath.

An idea of the amount of work being done by Willard can be judged when it is known that he eats ravishingly three times daily and drinks quarts of the good Hinia water here each day. He is a man given to collecting weight rapidly, so that he just naturally must work sensationally to keep himself down to the low weight notch.

Willard was happy today when he read the ultimatum issued by the New York State Athletic Commission forbidding all contestants billed to box on the big Mike Fund show card, May 12, in the Yankee Stadium, appearing elsewhere, prior to that date. To Willard it puts the way to a victory worth while.

GABRILOWITSCH IN CHOPIN PROGRAM

By ZOE FABER.

How does he do it? To be able to find time enough to be a pianist of the first rank and one of the best symphony conductors in the country at one and the same time is the answer that Ossip Gabrilowitsch has found to the old riddle of how much can a musician do and still be at his best.

The audience that came to Symphony Hall to hear Ossip Gabrilowitsch, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, was not as large as it might have been but it was enthusiastic in the extreme. Such piano playing as was heard on this occasion comes to us all too seldom.

Of outstanding beauty in a program that was beautiful from end to end were the Funeral March movement of the Sonata in B-flat minor, the Raindrop in the group of Preludes and the Nocturne in D-flat major. Other pianists have gained more fame but it is an open question whether they have woven the gossamer beauty of these things more skilfully.

EDDIE SORDILLO IN TITLE TOURNEY

Eddie Sordillo, holder of two titles, Junior National and New England 147 pound amateur champion, has entered the National amateur championships which are being held April 9-10. This boxer desires a little credit for his good work this past season. He has taken part in 26 bouts and has won 21 by the knockout route. He expects to win the Nationals.

FIGHT RESULTS IN NEW YORK SATURDAY

New York, April 9.—Saturday night's fight results:

Commonwealth Sporting Club—Terry Martin defeated Battling Leonard all the way through twelve rounds; Billy Houlihan won on a foul over Frankie Powers.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE HEAD EXPECTS BIG SEASON

By CLAUDE B. DAVIDSON.

As president of the Greater Boston Twilight League I am greatly pleased at the tremendous interest in the national pastime, especially in and around Boston.

Claude B. Davidson

The league had a very successful year any many organizations have been trying to jump aboard. The infant league greatly appreciates that sign of prosperity.

There has been considerable talk as to the way the league is run. All I will say is that for a new league everything appears to have run smoothly.

There will be four new teams. They will make it a twelve-team organization. Last year we started off with eight teams and at the end of the first half added two. The St. Joseph's Catholic Association of Somerville and J. J. Connolly Club of Roxbury resigned. Dilboy Post, V. F. W., of Somerville, the Everett City Team, Lawrence Independents and the Millstream Athletic and Social Club of Chelsea were added.

I look for good ball clubs to represent the four organizations. All have strong, sound financial backing.

It gives me pleasure to say that I have received word from Deputy Park Commissioner William P. Long that the City of Boston Park Department will co-operate with the Greater Boston Twilight League and that the Park Department will reserve the scheduled dates.

I have appointed all the umpires who worked throughout the entire season last year and also two others. The staff will number a dozen.

Players under contract to clubs last season must report back to those clubs. Should they wish to secure a release or transfer their request will be acted upon in due time.

Award Los Angeles 1932 Olympics

Rome, April 9 (By the Associated Press).—The Olympic games for 1932 have been awarded to Los Angeles.

This date was the first available for the United States, because the 1924 games go to Paris and the 1928 games to Amsterdam.

The City Fathers have given official approval of the league and in some cases have donated cups, banners or some suitable prize to encourage the game.

CHELSEA STUDENTS ASK FOR A NEW COACH

By FRED C. LANE.

Chelsea High's student body, representing about 250 boys, have signed a petition, which has been forwarded to the heads of the school department, demanding the resignation of Coach Sumner Davis.

The petition declares that if he should fail to comply with their request the baseball team which is now training will disband and cancel all North Shore League games.

That is the threat of the student body and can be taken for it's worth. It is rumored that because of the unfriendly feeling that exists at the school towards him Coach Davis has sent in his resignation.

Lack of interest in athletics is given as one reason for the poor showing of the team. The athletic field, over which contests are played is nothing better than a quarry.

There is not a team in the North Shore League that does not fear to play on the Carter Street Playground, not for fear of the Chelsea team, but because of the exceptionally rough stony surface.

Football Team Has Not Won Game in Two Years.

The Chelsea athletic teams have been in the background for some time. The football team has not won a game in two years and the baseball team has fared about the same fate.

It cannot be wholly attributed to Coach Davis' method of training. He has been forced to contend with alumni who have had its finger "in the pie" on many occasions.

If Chelsea resigns from the North Shore League, that move would be welcomed by almost every member of the South Shore League. They fail to draw because of their poor record by almost every member of the South Shore League. They fail to draw because of their poor record by almost every member of the South Shore League. They fail to draw because of their poor record

RED SOX BATTERS SHOW STRENGTH AGAINST GOOD PITCHERS

MANAGER CHANCE SURE THEY'RE OUT OF HOLE

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Evansville, Ind., April 9—"If the boys can continue hitting the so-called apple as they have in our Pittsburgh, Little Rock, Memphis and Louisville series, Boston fans who visit Fenway Park will not be patronizing a last place ball club." Said Frank Chance, Peerless Leader, just before the Red Sox regulars reported to the Evansville ball park for today's exhibition battle.

And when you come to figure up the winning statistics on the "Long Chances" in their past seven games they do reveal something that many had not expected.

Twenty-one of the twenty-eight players now on the roster have participated in those contests and the grand batting average of those twenty-one is exactly .351, for they have hit safely ninety-four times in 268 trips to the plate.

The leading slugger of the lot is Al Devormer, the catcher secured from the Yankees, who average is .545 for his ten hits safely, six times in eleven chances. Buck Weaver, regular second baseman and best man in a pinch on the club, ranked next to Al with an average of .440.

Joe Harris Is Up There With .421

Joe "Slug" Harris, the most dangerous batter of the lot, is up there with an average of .421, and Howard Shanks, whose brace of home runs featured and ultimately won the second Louisville combat, completes the list of batters over .400 hitters, for his mark is .409.

Camp Skinner's mark is .375; Clarke Pittenger's .333; Chick Fewster's .313; Ira Burns, .273, while Collins, Pichran, Mitchell, Reichle, Mitchell and Walters now all hitting for .200 or better, and Quinn, for .200 and Gobel for .125. Menosky, Leibold, Ehmke and Fullerton, three of the latter had chances at bat, have as yet failed to make a safe connection.

Extra Bases Have Come Before Hits Fielded

And one of the sweet features of the baseball contests on the last seven days is the fact that extra bases have come before the hits have been fielded. The first home run was not made until the Louisville game was the be t extra base exhibition of the seven contests, but several came has been played that have been full of rattling blows dealt by the box players.

The batting record is equally surprising for in the course of seven contests the Chancemen have scored 60 runs, or an average of nine per game, and as nearly fifty of the sixty have been earned counters the scoring productives of the peerless one's present combination is amply testified to.

If the Red Sox had been facing rookie pitching such statistics would mean little, but in the Pittsburgh and Louisville series they were facing some of the ablest and wisest fingers the big leagues have seen. Babe Adams Rohrer, Glazner, Morrison and Carlson were five that Pittsburgh employed, while Louisville used such able big league veterans as Kaob, Cullop and Tout in the course of their game with the Sox.

Chill winds, accompanied by a flurry of snow caused the cancellation of what was to have been the third game of the Red Sox Louisville series at Owensboro, Ky.

Whiskey City Was Out in Force

Joe Whisky City was out in force when the Red Sox special pulled in and was much disappointed at being unable to see them play.

The Knights of Columbus extended the visiting players the use of their attractive club house and in lieu of a field contest staged a thrilling basketball game in the Casey Gym.

The team arrived in Evansville late last night and, following today's contests between the Reds and Yanks, leaves for Indianapolis for a two day stay with the Indian apolis League as its playmate.

BRAVES START ON TRIP TOWARD THE WIGWAM

By NICK FLATLEY

Savannah, Ga., April 9—The well known last gun in the Braves Spring training was fired today when the team started its trip toward home and the season by playing the Senators in the more or less somnolent village.

A week from today the Bees will be home in Boston and seven days from tomorrow Manager Mitchell will be opening up at the Polo Grounds against the Phillies. But Wash Bancroft will be swinging a big new axe in the Braves' orchard.

Manager Mitchell is escorting quite a few new athletes toward the land of Canaan this year. The team will step off with a new shortstop at first baseman and in all likelihood an outfielder a range to the East winds of New England.

A much better looking ball club, we should say than made the same expedition one year before. In those days hope and ambition burned high. Hopes were exploded in very short order but the same dreams persist. These Braves expect to get somewhere and expect so hard that they're very likely to do so.

There's more than the spirit on the club now than there was a year ago. Everybody's more or less happy, even Jacks Coulon, whose ankle is still sore, and Al Nixon with his tender small toe, just recovering from a swimming fracture.

Both young men expect to represent the varsity in the first letter game next Tuesday at Jacksonville, forgot the minor aches and pains.

Three Pitchers Are Cutting Loose a Bit Now

They are the only real cripples. Pitcher Miller, Fielding Bell and Lansing, who have been nursing sore arms, are getting down to it and by the end of the week will be able to really bear down and put all their stuff on the ball. The presence of a number of ambitious and promising baby hurlers may account in part for the overlookedness.

The kids, as a matter of fact, are responsible for the spirit we have mentioned. Three young infielders came to the mark and made the nine realize that life was not here a matter of lazy-ing into condition. Conlon Smith and Padgett all acted with the club quite a while and may get run off one of the old timers.

Felix and Bagwell Set Pace for Outfielders

Felix and Bagwell, new outfielders, set the same pace for the fly chasers, and both of them are likely to linger for quite a spell under the large tent. They look as good that one of the vots is likely to get the air in a week or so. Pursuing the elusive fly on the sandy stretches of the St. Pete outfield was not much fun. The boys couldn't cut loose. But a week on a near regular ball parks will give Manager Mitchell the opportunity he wants to size up the boys.

This will be a big season for anyhow. As chugs stand at present Conlon will undoubtedly be in the regular line-up a week from today, but Mitch isn't satisfied that both Smith and Padgett don't deserve a chance in the game. Some of the best fielders I ever threw kids but hasn't been hitting.

Conlon Has Lion Heart Winning Player Needs

Conlon is a fine flashy fielder and a bear at the bat. He has the lion heart that a winning ball player needs. Padgett led the Sally League with the war club last season, but hasn't hit a lick this spring. Manager Mitch believes he is one of those slow starters and will come through next few days.

If the youngsters get hitting, we may see a novice combination around second on opening day. Tony Boeckel has batted his way back to third, but knows he will have to keep hustling to stay there, and if Conlon hits as he did last year he'll be a player. We don't hesitate to predict that stuffy McInnis will show a lot of baseball that many an expert thought had been buried in the flash and fire of his departed boyhood.

Manager Mitchell Makes Statement About Club

On the eve of the season, as you might call it, Mitch always propse to have the manager make a statement, being proper above everything else, we did that little thing here it is:

"Our training has been a success. We can't help getting a better start than we did a year ago. We have a better club than we had then, because we have plenty of extra material. There are five infielders in a mighty close race for a couple of jobs, and just as many outfielders. That's the sign of strength. Most of our pitchers are ready and some of them, notably Margaret and Watson, look better than ever. I'm all set for the season to open any old time."

HARVARD PLAYS CONNECTICUT AGGIES

With shortstop Percy Jenkins on the bench as a result of an injury in the Boston University game, Harvard Win tackle Connecticut Agricultural College this afternoon. The Crimson is hard pressed to fill his shoes, as Jenkins is one of the most important cogs in its machine, Frank Hill, Hill, the hockey player, or Jeff Ross, a former Milton Academy boy, who has played on the scrubs for two seasons, will take his place.

Jenkins injury presents a golden opportunity to Hill or Ross. For, if the player who subs for him shows the goods, he may win Buell's place at third base.

Two other pitchers who may see action in an attempt to find a Harvard cwirler who will be equal to the Yale, Princeton and Holy Cross obstacles are Grosvenor Bemis, who won his laurels at Andover, and Johnny Toulmin, who played third base for the freshman nine a year ago. Bemis was retained on the squad for a while last Spring Coach Slattery is trying to reconstruct Toulmin from a third baseman to a pitcher.

Buell at third is the weakest of the infielders. He is not sure of his job.

Connecticut is an unknown quantity as a result of the postponement of the game with Rowan University at Providence Saturday.

Harvard will play Wesleyan on Wednesday. This will be the last home game before the start of the Spring vacation.

On Saturday, a squad of twenty-one players will board the rattler for the sunny side of the Mason-Dixon line where a series of four contests will be played before returning to college.

Tough battles are scheduled to take place on this trip. Catholic University and Annapolis should furnish high calibre competition forward however, will be the favorite in the other two skirmishes, those with Maryland and William & Mary.

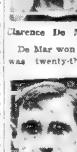
DEMAR HASN'T ENTERED FOR THE MARATHON

The absence of Clarence De Mar's name from the list of twenty-eight aspirants who have filed entry blanks with Manager Tom Kanaly for the annual B. A. A. Marathon run is causing much speculation among lovers of long distance running.

Clarence De Mar

De Mar won first in 1911 when he was twenty-three years old and poorly did he show immediately after that he was believed all done as a Marathoner.

In 1917, however, he surprised athletic followers when he won the Brockton marathon. This was the opening gun of that famous come-back campaign.



Frank Zuna

Impressive as the 1922 victory was, the fact that he set up a new record for a man past the thirty-fourth milestone was the feature of that glorious victory.

Only two former champions have sent along their blanks. Old Bill Kennedy, winner of the race in 1917, will be a starter again Patriots' Day. Frank Zuna, who won in 1921 was among the first to send in his application. It was Zuna's record that De Mar broke last year by 4:13 seconds.

Jack C. Resnick, Allston.

Up to Saturday the name of the veteran had not been received.

The entry of Henigan was received early in the week. Close friends of the Malden printer and twice winner of this grind hope that his entry will be received early this week.

It has been reported that he has been training daily for the past month for the race. Last year De Mar took to the road early in January, but because of the heavy snow fall this past Winter he could not get his usual early start.

TUFTS NINE TO OPEN SEASON WEDNESDAY

The Tufts nine which will open its season Wednesday with Northeastern, is rapidly rounding into a machine that should make them all step this Spring.

Coach Ken Nash believes he has a team which will equal the 1922 outfit. Only four games were lost a year ago and the Tufts coach declares he will be surprised if this season is not just as successful.

Weakness in the pitchers' box is the only thing that may hold the Jumbos back. The general hitting strength of the nine seems to be greater and several of the newcomers on the squad bid fair to outshine the men who occupied the positions last year.

Tufts has four outfielders above the average ability, and among whom there is little to choose at present.

Mike Crowley and Art Terrill, from last season's squad, are a pair of fast, hard hitting fly-chasers. Both are of the type of outfielder who can range far after fly balls and both possess unusually strong throwing arms.

Hal Griffin and Joe Kanealy batted the horsehide to all corners of the lot in the early workouts and showed good form in the outfield.

Coach Nash thinks that these four men composed the strongest group of gardeners he has had in his three years at the Medford college.

Corbett, a former St. Anselm's Prep star, apparently has first base nailed down. He is a tall, rangy lad with all kinds of reach and has displayed the ability to hit which goes with the first sacker's job.

Frank Loud, a three-year veteran, will again be seen at the keystone sack. In 1922 he led all college batsmen and the coach predicts that the coming season will be his best.

but owing to lack of experience third base material, he may move over to the hot corner.

In that case Glennon, a youngster from Weston High, will step into the shortstop position. Although small, Glennon has demonstrated the fact that he can murder the ball as well as some of the big men of the squad.

Coach Nash, who is an infielder himself, says that Glennon has a remarkable pair of hands and will undoubtedly develop into a real star at shortstop.

Frank Roach will bear the burden of the receiving this year and Bill Smith will be capable assistants is Avery and Kemp.

At present Art Kroog is the only experienced hurler on the Tufts staff. Tillinghast, Hunter and Daniels, however, have shown plenty of promise and this experience should become first-class twirlers.

BOSTON COLLEGE BACK FOR EIGHT GAMES

Boston College is back from its Southern excursion and will open the home season on Fenway Park this afternoon when it brought back to the Heights victories over Villanova and the Army, and is all set to continue the winning habit on the home grounds.

On Saturday Boston will play Northeastern at Alumni Field. Both games will furnish the Eagles with the much needed practice for the first big game of the season, a week from today, when the Braves, a week from today.

From the showing Boston made against Villanova and the Army the hopes that the Eagle will have a banner baseball year seem to have some foundation. It is true that in both games Boston was forced to fight hard, the Army contest went ten innings, but it must be remembered also that Coach Hennessey's men had not more than a half dozen out door practice sessions before starting South.

Now that the weather is becoming more suitable for outdoor work, Boston should be in the pink of condition by the time the Eagles invade the Southern states. The work of the team indicates that Boston will have another heavy hitting team this season. Tommy Phillips has already cleared his batting eye and it was his two-bagger that defeated West Point.

Phillips Will Probably Stay at Second Base

Phillips is covering second base and will probably stay at that position throughout the season. He is fast and sure fielder and one of the most dependable hitters on the squad. From the way he has been batting it will not be surprising if he leads the Eagle batting list when the season closes.

There is still a chance that the Eagle lineup will undergo a slight change Frank Sullivan, regular catcher of the squad, was unable to make the Southern trip and Ed Phillips was used in the opening games.

It was Coach Hennessey's intention to use Ed at first base, but he was forced to change his plans. Mc-Intire received first call behind the bat, but when he could not get Phillips to report, Sullivan was called upon and has done some fine work.

Patten got off to a poor start in the game against New York University, which was called on account of rain. Steve was late in reporting for practice this season, and will undoubtedly improve greatly in the next few weeks. Last season Steve's batter had the Eagles' opponents baffled, but an injury to his pitching arm spoiled what promised to be a big season.

The Eagle has eight home games scheduled before leaving on May 5 for a second trip South. These games include a return game with Villanova on May 1.

JOHNSON GLAD TO CALL OFF FULTON BOUT

New York, April 9—When Charley Cook, manager of Floyd Johnson, stepped off a train from Youngstown this morning he found a young man waiting for him with orders to report to William Muldoon, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission.

It seems that Charley has been making numerous matches for the man who is to box Jess Willard in the main bout of Tex Rickard's big fight, the profits of which are to be turned over to the Mile Fund on May 12. Muldoon will inform the manager that he must call off these bouts. But you can take it from me that Johnson and Fulton will not mingle at all at least not until after Floyd mingles with Jess at the Yankee Stadium on May 12. Muldoon has so ruled and his rulings are supreme.

We have no doubt that Johnson would whip Fulton handily, probably flatten him, and Muldoon is of the same opinion. But Floyd might break a hand or have an eye buried if he fights before May 12, and an injury would upset the plans of Muldoon and Rickard [illegible]

"For my part," said Johnson, "I am too glad to call off all engagements Cook has made for me. I am sure that Fulton would prove easy for me and figured the match would give me a workout for the big fight.'

Johnson plans to start serious training a week from today. It is likely that he will go to Saratoga for five or six days and then return to pitch his camp at Long Beach or in Westchester county.

A week from Saturday Willard will pull in. On his arrival it is expected that he will do his work at the Queensboro Club, which is in Long Island city.

GEORGE A. INGALLS, JR., No. 14 Shaw's Court, East Lynn:

"A kick ball player Maine was watching a game in a neighboring town. One of the outfielders got injured. The umpire asked the rube to play left field. He agreed. But as the other men trotted out to their positions he didn't budge. The captain asked him what was wrong. "I don't know where left field is" the rap said. "I'm a stranger in this town."

J. E. FRANK, No. 704 Ivy street, Boston.

"I was shopping for my wife and bought half a dozen lamb chops. While the clerk was wrapping up my purchase I became attracted to a fine French bulldog a lady had brought in. I stooped to pet the dog. After a few minutes I grabbed my package and started home. When my wife opened the package she found dozen dog chops. I hope that pooch enjoyed them there chops."

CHARLES J. BRIDEY, No. 1288 Hayden street, Newton Upper Falls:

"The pride of the countryside had come down to the city track meet to enter his first important race. A prominent coach told him that the only chance he had to win was to beat the gun. This rube's previous races had all been started by the old Ready, Set, Go" command. He therefore walked up to the starter and said: 'Where's this guy they call The Gun? I've got to beat him before I win.'"

TELL IT AT DINNER

An old lady was on a visit to her married daughter. One morning there was no milk and Aunt Theodora, the hope of the boys was doing her best to amuse a mother's sorrow.

Presently she left the room to return soon afterward with a penny nicked. "I'll be planted in front of his grandma, while the others sat wondering what was about to happen.

"Grandma," said little Theodore, "will you look it?"

"Bless the child," said the surprised old lady, "what do you wish me to do that darling?"

"Because," replied the young hopeful "I heard pa say we should be awfully sick when he kicked the bucket."

Flips From a Flapper

By Flossie Flapper

MANY girls seem to think that a sheik is a transcendent type of beauty. I'm afraid the real thing would scare them out of their wits

There was a time when they used to lose their pearls to get publicity. Nowadays they use the divorce court.

I hear the boss' son has been arrested for speeding. He'll never be arrested for that around here

Gwennie, one of the black-haired typists, is wearing new earrings. Looks as though they came out of the coal bin

When a girl puts rouge on her lips, that's bait for the "poor fish," of course. But when a sink buys a box of candy or a dozen roses for a dame, that's something else again, I suppose.

Our janitor is from Switzerland. He's a pretty poor janitor, but I wouldn't go so far as to call him a "pro-fess-or of cheese."

If I paid any attention to what the neighbors say and permitted them to make out my evening time table, I'd never go anywhere.

My little sister is advancing a bit too quickly. She is inclined to call those who cross her "old dumb bear." Naughty, naughty!

What is it that when a girl powders her puff it becomes a matter of [illegible] interest?

If I was that man with false teeth and a wig on the floor below I wouldn't devote so much attention to flappers.

I notice that the red haired of five men is wearing face powder on. And it's [illegible] when never he gets a chance. And Romeo had nothing on him.

Those sleeveless gowns are going to make a lot of girls with that vaccination had never been discovered.

In many cases bobbed hair is trying to get back to normalcy

If there [illegible] to be [illegible] my style kings I call it a pretty [illegible] fair—but the world doesn't seem to think so.

Style has done more to worry women than anything else I know of

Medbury Says---

By John P. Medbury

A well known scientist says that every person should have a mental house cleaning at least twice a month. Once you get on to it you can wash your mind along with the dishes.

JUST because your brain gets dusty that's no sign you can wipe it off has you do the piano.

MOST people would like to give their minds a mental renovating but a lot of them would have a hard job sweeping in the corners

THE best plan would be to have a brain storm and wash the cobwebs away

STILL some men are so dumb they couldn't have a brain storm big enough to get the inside of their scalps wet.

LOTS of fellows have brains but they keep them in storage in some other person's head

THAT'S why many a woman has to do the thinking for her husband

HE has a mind of his own but all he's got to show for it is a storage receipt

ONE guy hired five mind readers before they discovered there was nothing there to read.

THE whole five of them loved literature, but none of them cared anything about reading a blank book.

HIS head was so empty that every time he snuffed you could hear the wind howl

IT was so light he had to put a string around his neck and tie it to his collar button to keep it from blowing away

IF his parents had had about seven children like him they could have made a fortune selling their heads for balloons

A WRITER took a look at this guy's skull one day and then went home and wrote "Sleepy Hollow."

STILL, this scientist says that every month we should clean our minds. He doesn't stop to think that where there's no life there's no debris

HE claims that the only way to success and happiness is to have clean thoughts in your mind. Maybe he's correct, but nine out of ten women leave stacks of dirty dishes in the sink every evening and then seem to get along all right

This Day in Our History, Monday, April 9

THIS is the anniversary of Lee's surrender, in 1865, to Grant, at Appomattox. The act ended the Civil War and wiped slavery for ever from the Union. The four-year struggle cost hundreds of thousands of lives.

Breeches and the Greeks

AMONG the Greeks breeches were regarded as a mark of slavery. They were worn by northern peoples, however. In the reign of Honorius, in 396 A. D., the breeches makers were expelled from Rome.

THE LURE OF RICHES

AND THE VAST IMPORTANCE THEREOF

By I. Wright

SALLIE buttoned the large button on her white apron and reached for her parasol. Then she hesitated. It was early, the customers would be few, and everything was ready for the day's business. Besides, Madame La Rowe's Beauty Parlors, Inc., was early in the morning so much like a small thing that was well-bred out in the recesses of the mind, starved about Thursday. She was thinking of Tim Magee.

Tim was a street car conductor and had been sweet on her since school days. Nothing had ever been said about marriage, but they had both thought vaguely that some day they would be married and have a little flat of their own where they would have company in to Sunday dinners and, at the latest date, records would be dropped in evenings. Last night at the movies, however, Tim had rather begun matters to a climax by saying:

"Tomorrow, Sallie is my day off and I thought we'd go down town to look in, you and I, and—and sort of look around at things."

It wasn't that he didn't mean it, but Sallie knew what he meant. She had known him long enough to understand that he meant to look at an engagement ring and perhaps to select one for the flat. And Sallie was not sure that she wanted to exchange position in Madame LaRowe's to live in a tiny flat and spoil her hands by washing dishes.

Sallie had beautiful hands. And as all of the employees at the shop were given cut-rate on work, Sallie had had her hands attended to until the nails were glossy and oval and until the flesh was soft and white. The bell rang four times and Sallie hurried to her table. She knew that some one was waiting for her.

"Good morning, Sallie," said Miss Mainwaring. "Can you hurry right—jump on her because she's down. If she makes a good marriage, you'll do everything to get back her patronage if you're lost. I suppose. You'd do better to keep on coming. That's—oh!" she said with a frightened smile as the older woman seized about to sputter for the harsh words, "You needn't trouble to dress for supper on Tuesday, as I'm not at the end of the week anyhow."

I'm going to be married and have a little flat and cook nice dinners for Timmy. The importance of being rich! Why that's a joke, Tim and I won't care where we live so long as we have each other and it's more than lots of people have.

Sallie looked at her sympathetically and said kindly:

"I'm sorry to be glad, Sallie that you aren't in society," said Miss Mainwaring.

"I was thinking this morning that I was a social success myself, Miss Mainwaring. I was looking around the reception hall with its Persian rugs and the hanging parrot in the golden cage and wondering whether or not I could ever have a house with a title all its own. I was dreaming.

She drew the curtain which she was working and removed her tortoise shell. Miss Mainwaring took advantage of the pause and opened for her purse. Taking a ring from it, she said it so that Sallie could read it.

If a certain elderly family whose family tree has lengthy roots but whose coffers are low and whose daughter is engaged, does not step in and add on the marriage of the only daughter Estelle there will be another old maid who will attend every debut party with color and style. It was rumored that one of the rent Astor families was at one time in domestic service in a nook by her self.

Sallie's eyes blazed as she handed it back. "It was a joy" she whispered.

Sallie had finished the other head and it was time to spend when Madame LaRowe came up. "Your next appointment is awaiting, Sallie."

Estelle Mainwaring's shoulder shrugged as she rose to go. "See, even she has read it," she told Sallie.

"Don't take too long over her next time," said Madame LaRowe between appointments. "It's not do the shop much good to have her seen here—we have plenty of work anyhow, and—"

Sallie's lips quivered with a blunt reply. For a moment she hesitated, then spoke. "That's right—jump on her because she's down. If she makes a good marriage, you'll do everything to get back her patronage if you're lost. I suppose. You'd do better to keep on coming. That's—oh!" she said with a frightened smile as the older woman seemed about to sputter for the harsh words, "You needn't trouble to dress for supper on Tuesday, as I'm not at the end of the week anyhow."

The Irresistible Age

DRAWN BY POPINI

WHAT is the age when woman is most irresistible?

In the earliest Springtime of youth when her greatest charm is the promise of what she yet is to be? Who votes for this age?

The middle age? THAT is an age! Knowing something, forgetting more, a charming combination, rounding a lot and playing tennis—not because she likes it, but considers its score so much as to preserve her looks—she will vote for Twenty-nine?

Then she's been!—how they merge, these "other ages," one into another! Thirty is such a POPULAR age—so MANY women cling to it. "Wife," "Mother," "Platonic Friend," these are the titles of those of these other years—at home or, maybap, out on the golf course, where the wiles blow such things as age into the limbo of well-forgotten things. Dan Cupid will count the multitude who clamor to be counted as voting for "Thirty."

The years beyond—Grandmamma in lovely costume and spectacles—up we all rise in honor to this irresistible age!

But which would you choose for yourself if you could grasp the scheme of things and mould them to YOUR desire?

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Jim Demands That Things Be Made Clear to Him; Anne Trembles With Fear

By Ann Lisle

DAD LEE had made his great announcement and then had cut himself off, vanishing into the void out of which his voice came.

Jim and I rattled up the receivers we were impotently holding, and a smart came from him. But the Star operator reported:

"That's the darndest mess!" he cried. "So that was—the great and only—Dad Lee? How does he know whether Dick is dead or alive? Likely story that a precious scoundrel like West would have the decency to—shuffle off this way. What does it all mean?"

Every word he spoke was addressed directly to Ralph Lacy. The quality of his fury and of his impotent rage at being thus "no near and yet so far" from his goal was held in leash by the fact that he had a sense of restraint in dealing with Mr. Lacy. But there was a suggestion of a snarl in his voice.

"That's the last of him—Lee, I mean. He blurts this out and makes his getaway," muttered Jim. "I see the whole thing. They're pretty desperate—near the last ditch. No more use to flirt. But they can do one thing, and that blocks me as completely as the whole darn conspiracy they hatched. They play dead and innocuous with the papers. And I'm as badly off as ever. Helpless! Can't prove title. Can't touch the best claims we've got. They stand idle while we go broke trying to develop new properties. Jove, it's maddening!"

"I know how you feel," repeated Ralph Lacy forcefully. "But though that's exactly the way things look from the street it's not the way Park and I planned them. And I'll stake my last dollar that Park won't fall down on this commission." Turning to me he added: "You know Park, Mrs Harrison. You know how he's been pouring himself heart and soul into his new business concerns, and when I tell you that he hasn't been near his shop for two days but has been on this job, you'll know it's going to—be seen through."

"I believe it, absolutely," I said, wondering if Park had been work ing out of sheer loyalty to Ralph Lacy and disinterested kindness where I'm concerned, or if he knew something of Model's fear and hatred of Dick West.

"Will you make a few things clear to me?" asked Jim, turning to Mr. Lacy so noticeably that I trembled for fear he'd see how I was being ignored and slighted.

"Of course," said Mr. Lacy with just the proper token for granted air. "Nothing seems quite so clear as when it has been put as man to man and in terms of business. Even as the cleverest woman hasn't yet learned to talk it. Fire ahead. I'll add my bit to Mrs. Harrison's."

"Do you—agree with Mrs. Harrison," said Jim with a gulp, as he found a way to cover the fact that he'd had very little information from me. "Do you agree that this Lee is Dick's pal?"

I felt absolutely ill. This—added to what I could fancy Jim had heard from Rosa—must indeed fill him with disgust and shame. If only I'd managed to break the facts to him the evening before. I felt it would all have been so much less terrible. But now Jim Harrison's pride was bending to the galling facts of Dad Lee's infamy, and I hadn't done a thing to ease the shock.

"Mr. Lee has worked for Dick West, whom he adored with a love that surpasses understanding," replied Ralph Lacy, his eyes seeking mine for a second and conveying so much of kindness that I managed to straighten back my shoulders and to throw up my head. "Perhaps when we come to judge him we can allow for that."

"Small mercy I'll feel for a man who adored the spirited Dick West," he said with a smooth sarcasm that had enough suavity to avoid offending Mr Lacy.

I wanted to plead for my poor little proud father. Then I dared not risk a direct remark to Jim. I felt his smouldering resentment of everything I'd done—and left undone—would leap into flame if I directed his attention to me and my feelings. So I set my mind in a firm line and ignored my heartache.

"Now what are we to do?" demanded Jim of Ralph Lacy with a certain respect that suggested he had a flicker of belief in the advertising manner of the man. "Will we get a message from your friend, young Parkinson? Do we wait for that?"

FOXY GRANDPA STORIES

What Bunny and Robby Found in the Sand

DOLLY, those are very pretty pearls you have around your neck. They remind me of a funny experience that Bunny, Bobby and I had one day at the seashore.

We were all in bathing. Sud denly Bunny said:

"Indeed I am, and so am I," chattered. "I just don't dry off in the sun and then flew out from Bunny's little fur.

Suddenly I stopped. I could see Bobby's curly head and Bunny's arms close together. Some thing important was being discussed.

Then they started on a dead run toward me. Bobby ex claimed:

I reached out my hand and what do you think they were?

Pearls! Just like these in Dolly's necklace!

"Where did you find them?" I asked.

"Perhaps it's a pearl mine!" Bobby shouted.

I looked at him and said:

"Pearls don't grow in mines! They grow in oysters. A pearl really is a little growth on an oyster—that grows up over the shell oysters like an oyster of course whatever it is with the beautiful covering that men call pearls."

"Come on, Bobby! Let's dig a tunnel to get warm!"

You ought to see how quickly that little fellow can dig a tunnel Of course, it's an inherited trait. Bunny's family has been digging tunnels for years. He comes by it naturally.

I lay there and watched my two little friends and soon as the sand flew out from Bunny's little feet.

Suddenly I stopped. I could see Bobby's curly head and Bunny's arms close together. Some thing important was being discussed.

Then they started on a dead run toward me. Bobby ex claimed:

"Look! Foxy Grandpa. Look at these beautiful little round pebbles!

I reached out my hand and what do you think they were?

Pearls! Just like these in Dolly's necklace!

"Where did you find them?" I asked.

Right over there where we were digging," they answered in one breath.

"Pearls don't grow in mines! They grow in oysters. A pearl really is a little growth on an oyster—that grows up over the shell oysters like an oyster of course whatever it is with the beautiful covering that men call pearls."

"Well, anyhow," said Bobby, "let's go over and see if we can find some more."

Just then we noticed a lady and gentleman and a pretty girl coming toward us, intently looking on the beach.

Bunny said:

Then I saw the lady put her arm around the girl and try to comfort her.

They hardly heard us come up. They were so busily looking down at the sand.

Then finally

"Pardon me, madam, is there anything I can do to help the young lady?"

She smiled sweetly and replied:

Oh, no, thank you. My daughter broke her string of pearls. We have found all but three. But she loves those three very much. Her grandfather gave her a pearl each Christmas and those three were the first. He gave her these when she was a baby."

I winked at Billy and Bobby as I offered her the pearls they found and asked:

"Are these your pearls?"

You should have seen all of their faces. Of course, the boys were disappointed because they thought they had made a great discovery but my they were happy for the young lady whose face was wreathed in smiles.

BENEFITS OF EXERCISE

By Brice Belden, M. D.

THE beneficial effects of muscular exercise are usually stated to be as follows: The circulation is made rapid, so is increased, more waste is eliminated, the skin is colored the muscular tissue is strengthened, digestion is aided the mental tone is improved, general congestion is relieved, the lungs are strengthened and enlarged, the heart is strengthened, and the heart regulating mechanism is improved.

Recently Brown, of the Rockefeller Institute, has added something very important to the foregoing. He has found that exercise stimulates the blood making organs in increased efficiency. He found that when rabbits, in whom but little of it was being made, were made to exercised, that a tendency anemia was produced, due to the fact that the blood forming organs was "rough napping" and did not cause in promptly the red blood cells which normally are worn and many circumstances.

If he stopped there he might have concluded that exercise causes anemia in inactive people. But modern science never jumps to such hasty conclusions. Further investigation by him has shown that a course of "training" through exercise greatly facilitates the blood-making function of the bone marrow. This is because the latter adapts itself to the increased demands made. It is the challenge of the temporary necessity to the blood making cells excites them to "get busy."

In normally active people, it seems, a virtually constant balance is maintained between blood destruction and blood formation, in spite of occasion unusual exertions, such as may be supposed to cause a temporarily increased blood destruction. There is immediate response to the demands on the blood making organs. In the case of the sedentary the response is tardy, but the resulting stimulus nevertheless follows, and the individual is finally brought up to the normal.

FINDING JOY IN WORK

HELP TO BUILD AS YOU GO ALONG

By Beatrice Fairfax

Who Occupies a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority on the Problems of Girls.

ACTIVITY ought to mean happiness. Having nothing to do is about the most lonesome state of affairs known to man. And yet the world is full of folks who are finding no joy in their work.

Perhaps you are inclined to ask:

"How can I enjoy the drudgery of washing dishes or adding up columns of figures or correcting proof sheets? If I had a fine inspiring job like singing or designing gardens or handling beautiful paintings, I might be happy at my work. But all I am doing is eking out a living. There is no beauty in my sort of activity."

But there is beauty in any activity—only it must be recognized and understood.

There is a story of a man who passed a lot where a building was under construction. He questioned a workman.

"What are you doing here?"

"Working for seven dollars a day," said the man.

A second workman was questioned and he replied:

"Carving stone. You ought to be able to see that for yourself."

A third workman explained what he was doing in these terms:

"I'm helping to build a cathedral."

The third man had vision. He saw beyond the task of the moment to the glorious whole of which it was part.

Your work must be one of three things to you. It is just the means whereby you earn your daily bread—two dollars a day or seven or seventy—then you will drudge along feeling that work means money and nothing more. If you are badly paid and life becomes nothing but the struggle with material conditions, you will have no room for hope or joy in your plan.

If your work means no more than the effort you put into it, again you have nothing but material for your reward. Do what you will with hands or head, your heart will not enter into your task.

But there is a third attitude possible. And this gives you inspiration. For the minute your work is part of a beautiful whole it offers you the joy of striving for better, bigger work and the hope that you will achieve. No task can be drudgery to one who sees beyond it to the beauty and usefulness of the world about him.

Don't get discouraged over "lowly" or "menial" tasks. No work is ignoble if the spirit to put into it is fine. All work is pioneering in the field of endeavor. The world grows through such "lowly" things as putting a kettle on to boil and watching the steam. For there lies the seed of inspiration.

The workers at "lowly tasks" have made paths through the world's wilderness and have charted the seas. The stoker and the woodchopper are the makers of progress.

There is no work that is lowly or tedious or uninspiring if your heart knows that in hewing stone your hands are—helping to build a cathedral.

Eating Baked Potato

DEAR MISS ADAMS:

Please tell me the correct way to master a baked potato.

(2) When at table should you keep your left hand in your lap while you are eating, or is it proper to have your hand, just to the wrist, resting on the table?

P. C.

BREAK the baked potato and scoop it out with your fork. It is, however, perfectly good form to eat the skin if one wishes. Many maintain that the precious vitamines and the most nourishing part of the potato is in the skin.

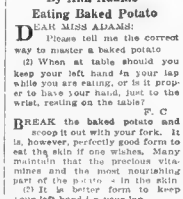
What's Wrong Here?



Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

YOU CAN'T COMB IT OUT

THE INNER VOICE

WHEN IT CALLS, ANSWER IT TRULY

By Wm. A. McKeever

"WHILE the voice of inspiration cried out for expression I am haunted with the demons of fear, criticism and despair."

Thus a young girl, employed at the wrong job, writes at length about her troubles. Such letters come in constantly, but they never discourage me.

After one has learned the facts fully, it is nearly always easy to induce a discouraged girl to give up her false quest of happiness and turn to something worth while.

"Afraid to quit present place. Afraid to go against the advice of my parents. Afraid of the unfavorable remarks and criticism of friends."

These are the most common expressions, hinting at the trouble and despair which haunt the souls of thousands of young girls. And to all these I wish to give a word or two of very definite advice.

First, choose your line of work and go after it. No one else has a right to or can decide for you as to your life employment.

Second, break the ice and make a start. It is never half so difficult as it seems, to take up a work in line with one's ambition. The very fact that your desire is strong means an equally strong probability that you will succeed.

Third, let no imagined weakness of mind hinder you. The only weakness you need to fear is the possible false belief in your weakness. A belief in your strength and a few steps toward the realization of that faith will change all in your favor.

Overcome this one enemy of fear and all the others will be put to rout, and you overcome the fear enemy by acting as if it were not real, by stepping boldly in the direction you most say you want to go.

Every young girl should mark clearly this one reliable rule, namely, it is better to struggle, strive for what you want and lose it than not to strive at all.

If you do the struggle toward your heart's desire, if you sit back, cringing with fear and overcome tired with doubt and criticism—then you hate yourself and make the whole world look ugly.

You can become strong, within reason and common sense, which you desire to become. Self-pity and self-hatred weaken you in every respect. Cheerfulness, determination and a taking of the first step in the direction of your ambition have precisely the opposite effect. You respect yourself and the world grows fond of you.

Very well, now that you are convinced cut loose from your demons—they are only imaginary—and start bravely on the fulfillment of your own dreams.

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

Start Here Today This Engrossing Story of Life and Love from the Master Pen of One of the World's Greatest Novelists

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

Scene from the film version of "Enemies of Women," the remarkable story by Blasco Ibanez, which will be seen at the leading motion picture theatres.

"I HAD a son and lost him," Alicia went on. "He was my boy, my one reason for living. My suffering because of his death made me look about for consolation. For what would become of us if we did not have the power of deceiving ourselves by making new illusions? And I had a second son, a son whom I invented, sad, condemned to die, but young like the other, unfortunate like the other, and lacking a mother to bring joy to his last days. I wanted to be that mother. And you took away this last consolation."

Michael began to understand. Alicia was talking about Martinez, and he felt once more the sting of jealousy.

"He was so timid, satisfied with everything," Alicia went on. "His venerated me like a being descended from an upper world. I was his mother. His words and looks breathed a feeling of deep respect. I wasn't a woman for him; I was something like the angels. And you, with your crass interference, have spoiled it all. He is no longer my son; my dream has ended.

"I am obliged to get along without his companionship now, and it is only at rare intervals that he finds open to him a house which I had taught him to consider his own. It was your fault, this boy, in whom I saw a son, is now merely a man, and I, his mother, have become once more a woman."

Lubinoff's face grew dark with that same earthy cast that had marked them on the afternoon of the duel. He was beginning to understand. . . .

"Do you realize what you did, Michael?" Alicia continued in a tearful voice. "You aroused the fighter in you, he imagined he was fighting for me. I was a woman.

"He saw me suddenly in a new light, as though he had been asleep until then. A few weeks ago he used to laugh in my presence with childlike simplicity, and look at me placidly, without the shadow of an evil thought in his eyes. He was happy, and so was I; while now!"

The Prince pictured Martinez pursuing Alicia with his amorous desires. "I'll kill him; I must kill him," he said to himself. But this homicidal anger lasted only an instant. The various scenes of the duel passed through his mind —the vision of himself kissing the officer's hand, in a sudden burst of unexplainable humility. The remembrance of it tormented him like remorse. But what could he do now? After what had happened, there was something sacred about the man. And as he gave himself up to his despair Alicia said her farewell.

A Dream Dead

My dream is dead. My son has become my son once more. Because of you, Martinez is now a man like any other. That is my tragedy—that I can never know quiet friendship, and the tranquil days of maternity. Love is forever looming up before me! In my younger days I considered that the one aim in life was to inspire admiration and desire, and now I am punished for that. I sought in you, Michael, a sustaining friendship, and you immediately desired me.

"I tried to decieve my maternal longings by caring for this unfortunate boy who may die very soon and this son of my affections talks to me of love. I can never forgive you. Never!" And before Michael could frame a reply Alicia passed down the steps, entered her carriage, and drove away.

From that day on the life of the Prince lacked purpose. Something had broken within him; his will had crumbled to dust, enveloping his senses in, a sort of fog. Alicia hated him as though he were an enemy. It meant goodby for all time! And meanwhile she chose still to befriend Martinez, his enemy!

Every morning, when he got up, he formulated the same plan: "I am going to Paris." But the trip kept being put off from week to week. The most significant details loomed gigantically before his diseased will. He had to go to Nice to make reservations at the sleeping-car office. He thought of sending the Colonel, then refused, preferring to go himself. And days went by without his taking the short ride preliminary to his Paris trip. Both of the journeys seemed to him equally long. Prince Michael, who had three circumnavigated the globe, wearily shrank at the thought of the slowness of travel due to the war—sixteen hours on a train.

One afternoon, bored by his splendid gardens (now so monotonous), by the silence of his house (now so deserted), and by the increasing absent-mindedness of the Colonel, who was constantly absorbed in discussing the war, and who always had something to do either in Monte Carlo, or in the gardener's pavilion, Michael started out on foot towards the city.

He had turned quite mechanically and without thinking in the direction of the upper boulevards, near the street in which Villa Rosa was situated. When he realized this he decided to turn back.

Suddenly Michael stopped, with a feeling of surprise and pain, as though he had been struck an unexpected blow on the breast. A man and a woman were descending the wide steps which joined the two persons instinctively before he could see them clearly. The man was in uniform. It was Lieutenant Martinez—and Alicia!

Alicia was dressed in mourning, just as Michael had seen her at the church; but she was walking less resolutely. They were talking as they slowly descended. Absorbed, they did not turn their eyes toward the spot where Michael stood motionless. At the bottom of the stairs they chose to walk in the opposite direction and the Prince was able to follow them.

A Big Shock

He felt that some extraordinary power of divination was sharpening his faculties—a sort of second sight which was enabling him to see and study both their faces, in spite of the fact that their backs were turned toward him.

Alas, that walk! It was the desire for light and open air which people feel after a sweet confinement, Michael said to himself bitterly. It was the insolent need lovers have of displaying their happiness in public, when the joyous hours, through monotonous repetition, begin to weigh on them. It was the desire of prolonging in the sight of every one the sweet intimacy enjoyed in secret and now spiced with the added incentive of their necessity to feign, and to hide their real feelings.

Michael regarded his intuitions as beyond all question. Hate, repugnance and indignant jealousy caused him to stop. Why should he follow them? They might turn their heads and see him. And he left them, walking toward the other end of the promenade in order to ascend to the harbor of La Condamine.

Michael was just leaving the terrace when something happened behind his back which brought him to a stop. The couples seated here and there on the benches suddenly rose and ran shouting in the direction whence he had come. He could hear voices calling to one another. News seemed to be circulating through both levels of the garden, bringing crowds of people forth from the walks, from the clusters of palm trees and the walls of vegetation.

As he drew near, Michael could hear the comments of various detached onlookers, who were telling the news to the new arrivals.

A convalescent officer. . . .

Suddenly he fell in a heap, as though struck by lightning. There he is."

Yes; there was Martinez in the centre of that human mass—a pitiful object lying on the ground, with his body bent into the shape of a Z. Michael pressed forward, until he could look over the shoulders of the first row of stupefied onlookers. A constant sound of hard breathing, a rattle like that of some poor beast in the death agony kept coming from the soldier's foaming lips. The only sign of life in that motionless body was that mean, repeated with clock-like regularity, with no change in the tone.

Officers were leaving their women companions in force their way into the centre of the crowd. A military doctor made his way through the crowd. He bent and took hold of Martinez's hands and felt his pulse. A look of hopelessness came over the doctor's face. The Lieutenant had had many attacks like this one. They could only hope that it was not to be the last. . . .

Michael could see Alicia kneeling on the ground, stunned by the shock. The sinuous curve of her back showed under her mourning garments. She was oblivious of everything about her, with her eyes fixed on the man who a few minutes before had been walking at her side, talking and smiling, convinced that life is happiness, and who now lay stretched in the dust, convulsed and inert, a pitiful object slowly emptying itself of life in dying gasps.

Suddenly Alicia stood up, with an instinctive sense of her position. She did not care to remain in that posture before everybody's gaze. Her large eyes, with a blank, frightened look, began to move about over the crowd, but she recognized no one.

For a moment her gaze rested on Michael, and her eyes met his with an expression of anguished entreaty. But the Prince, lowering his head, concealed himself behind the front row of onlookers, and her eyes went on in their search about the circle, and her expression became dull and grey again. She believed, doubtless, that her impression that Michael was there had been a hallucination.

Left All Alone

Now people in the crowd began pointing Alicia out. That was the lady who was with the officer. Some of them recognized her, and repeated her name: "The Duchess de Delille." Through an instinctive feeling of repulsion, or a cowardly desire not to get mixed up in any "affair," no one spoke to her. She was left alone in the centre of the crowd, with a look of stupefaction in her eyes that seemed to be pleading for help. It was only an instant, however, before willing souls began to take the initiative with an air of authority.

INTERESTING FACTS

Unable to live on her modest income, she hethought herself a year and half ago of her pearl necklace and took it to Berlin, where it was valued at 50,000 marks.

She then pawned it for 30,000 marks.

Three months later a friendly banker lent her 30,000 marks to redeem the necklace. After redeeming it, she went to another valuer, who appraised the necklace at 225,000 marks.

She then pawned it for 110,000 marks, repaid the banker his 30,000 marks and was able to live for a time in comfort.

Six months later she received a loan to redeem the necklace, had it revalued and again pawned it.

The necklace, now valued at 2,500,000 marks, is now in pawn for 1,500,000 marks—and the woman is living comfortably on the profits.

In the Balkans, where women tend goats and cattle in the mountains, it is necessary for them to wear trousers; skirts would be too cumbersome among the rocks. In Albania, however, especially at Scutari, says a recent writer, women wear trousers in accordance with an old custom. An Albanian woman takes pride in wearing trousers as voluminous as possible, and as a result the garments do not in the least resemble the ordinary masculine attire with which we associate the word, but appear like tremendously full, heavy skirts.

The riches the woman is the more extensive are the trousers, and it is not at all uncommon to see women wearing trousers that are made of ninety feet or more of cloth.

Hairy Growths Removed Entire, Roots and All

By Harmless Phelactine Method

The vexed question of how to completely banish superfluous hair has been solved at last! By means of the new Phelactine process, the hairs entire, roots and all, come out before your very eyes—easily, harmlessly, "quick as a wink." Quite different from the depilatory, electrical and shaving methods, Phelactine is perfectly odorless, non-irritating, non-poisonous—a child could eat it without the least injury. It leaves the skin so soft, smooth, hairless, no one could tell you ever had a moustache or other hairy growth. Procure a stick of Phelactine from your druggist, follow the simple instructions, and you will certainly be astonished and delighted.

ROYAL ROMANCES

LEOPOLD II. AND CAROLINE LACROIX

By Barbara Bayne

LEOPOLD II., "le roi Belges et des Belles," they said of him when he was very young, for his gallant adventures were not a few and began when he was the Duke of Brabant.

Many scandals were hushed up, but there was the gossip about his journeys to the East, when his curiosity prompted him to pry into the secrets of the Oriental harem. Giving fancy a loose rein, we can imagine that in the eyes of the veiled beauties their fat old "master" suffered by comparison with the slim, debonair young Duke.

It is difficult to associate Leopold II., who, though ruler of a small constitutional monarchy, became known as the "Autocrat of the Congo," with the young Duke who came to the throne of Belgium in December, 1865. Then, his erect, military figure—his dress and appearance closely resemble those of Francis Joseph and Maximilian of the same period—his kindly manner gave promise of a gentle, benevolent reign.

But behind the dreamy blue eyes, so like Maximilian's, there lurked an indomitable will, a keen intelligence that during his entire reign hoodwinked the cleverest diplomats and financiers of Europe.

Though even the gay capitals of Europe sometimes pretended to be shocked by some of his "gallantries," particularly in his later years, when he had separated from the Queen and quarreled with his daughters, he was not always as black as they painted him.

There was the case of Cleo de Merode, when he was caricatured in the French press as "Cleopold." He laughed it off until finally, seated in a box one night where the little Parisian was dancing, he amazed his companions by requesting an introduction to her, as if he had never met her. Cleo probably employed a good press agent who understood the value of publicity.

Though unmerited, in that case, the name caught the popular fancy and Parisians forever after called him "Cleopold."

The most celebrated of his favorites was Caroline Lacroix, of Bordeaux, whom he met in Paris in 1900 and who accompanied him on all his travels. She became known as "la reine du Congo," for she was benefiting largely by the atrocities committed in the Congo Free States—a horror which has written Leopold's name on the pages of history as the monarch who played 20,000,000 black men as his pawns in the game of nations, sacrificed tens of thousands of human lives in his greed for gold, and permitted his soldiers to cut off their right hands whenever they refused to work.

After the death of the Queen the Vatican recognized the legality of the marriage of Leopold II. and the "Baroness," and with her he passed the last years of his life.

After the death of Leopold II. it was found that he had left his vast fortune to the "Baroness" and her two sons, and the world enjoyed the spectacle of a royal lawsuit waged by the disinherited princesses against their low born, morganatic step-mother.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have Take Olive Tablets

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years made a process of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Fruit Salad

Take a small can of pears and a pint of pineapple. Pour off the juice from each can and thicken with 2 tablespoons of softened gelatine. Arrange the fruit—the pears in quarters and the sliced pineapple in a mold—and when the juice is rather thick begin to fill the mold after each layer. Wait for the jelly to stiffen before adding another layer of fruit. Set away to stiffen and serve unmolded on a bed of lettuce. Serve at the table with a bowl of mayonnaise. The mayonnaise should be highly seasoned and mixed with whipped cream.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers you, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Don't let us rush from one extreme to the other.

Let us be careful not to overdo the applying of the brakes to business.

• • •

The administration has ordered a stop put to all governmental building operations. This, by itself, doubtless was prudent, seeing that practically all building trade workers can at present find full employment at unusually high wages on private construction.

• • •

But the Federal Reserve Board should hesitate to bring about an advance in rediscount rates at this juncture. Such action is not yet needed to keep rediscounting within reasonable limits and, quite as important, there would be danger that the sentimental effect would be more disturbing than conditions call for.

From a narrow, strictly banking point of view it can be argued that the rediscount rates should be above the open market rates. But our financial statesmen at Washington should take a statesmanlike view of the situation and consider carefully all effects likely to be produced were they to hint at this stage what would be regarded by the business world as a danger signal.

• • •

It is not as if all our industrial leaders, our banking leaders, our mercantile leaders and our labor leaders were acting recklessly, without giving a thought to whether or not their conduct might precipitate undesirable inflation and, as a corollary, disaster.

• • •

The truth is that there are quite a few evidences that the whole situation is more clearly understood than any similar situation was ever understood before, alike by business, banking and labor leaders.

Note the wavering of quotations for stocks on the New York Stock Exchange during the last month, and the hesitancy bonds have exhibited for nearly two months. An average decline of more than 3¼ points in stocks and of 2½ in bonds reflects a disposition to proceed with a rational amount of caution, and reflects, also, no wild visions concerning the outlook.

• • •

It may be worth noting, too, that, for two weeks running, the number of commodity price declines have exceeded the advances. Such statistics as have already been issued covering March revenue a very moderate net rise in commodity prices for the month, only about one per cent.

• • •

While "new high records" are still the order of the day in iron production, railway freight, automobile output, customs receipts, building activity, postal revenue, etc., there are at least a few developments of a different kind.

The Iron Trade Review declares that "Buying and selling of iron and steel follow more subdued courses." A disposition to act cautiously in extending obligations at this time is apparent among both producers and consumers." The copper trade is experiencing a lull, while both lead and tin prices have receded slightly. Contracting for new wool clips is being conducted timidly.

• • •

There have been few untoward happenings in the matter of wages. Thus far workers, with few exceptions, have acted more reasonable. Employers, too, have been handling the situation satisfactorily.

• • •

To sum up, there is a gratifying disposition in most directions to act sensibly with the object of insuring the continuance of good, active business and of avoiding unhealthy inflation.

Let us hope that the adage, "Dangers foreseen are dangers avoided," will prove applicable in this instance.

Oils Most Active and Steady in Irregular and Quiet New York Market

ATCHISON IS UP AS LEADER IN RAIL GROUP

Oils were the most active group with prices steady inn an irregular and quiet New York stock market today. Money renewed at 4½ per cent. Atchison was a leader in the carriers, up more than a point in afternoon trading.

Prices displayed a firm tone at the opening. Multiple evidence of business prosperity, contained in weekly trade and industrial reviews encouraged a resumption of professional operations for the rise.

The initial demand was most effective in the oils. Mexican Seaboard, Middle States, Shell Union, the Pan American issues and Producers and Refiners, all opening fractionally above yesterday's closing prices.

With the exception of Oils Steel, the independent steel issues were slightly reactionary.

Computing Tabulating & Recording, National Department Stores first preferred and American Steel & Foundry all advanced a point or more but most of the other early changes were of a fractional character.

Strength of French francs, which advanced 14⅛ points to 6.74⅜ cents, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady around 4.66⅛.

Boston Notes

LIBBY, McNeill & Libby for year ended March 3, 1923, shows addition to surplus of $182,868. Net working capital at close of the year $17,362,654. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities 228 per cent.

MISSISSIPPI Power officials expect 1923 to prove a record year for earnings. Business is expanding steadily.

UNITED States Smelting has been showing declines in earnings owing to decreased production in Mexico due to labor disturbances.

PREFERRED stock of Island Creek has wide distribution considering small amount outstanding. The Holden estate owns between 8,000 and 9,000 shares.

GENERAL ELECTRIC, in Line with expanding rate of bookings, is increasing production steadily, but still has considerable unemployed capacity.

FABRICATORS other than cable makers are booked well ahead—the American Cable will contract two months ahead, with competitors possibly not quite so well covered by bookings.

IMPORTANT Middle Western fabricator reports March business 30 per cent. higher than during any of the war months.

IN FIRST two months of this year Wickwire Spencer earned $220,000 available for interest.

WICKWIRE'S new subsidiary, American Wire Fabrics Corporation, earned in excess of $100,000 for each of first two months of 1923, with second peak of its business still to come.

Jury System Should Be Extended in Quest for Facts

We sympathize with Daniel H. Coakley's request to have the Berman case, which is a suit to recover fifty thousand dollars against him, tried before a jury. There was a determination of facts in the case against Pelletier, in which Mr. Coakley's testimony was not offered, that makes the trial of this case against Coakley on the facts a mere formality.

Therefore he must be right when he says that the Supreme Court cannot but be a prejudiced tribunal on the determination of the facts in this case and he, therefore, cannot but be foredoomed if THEY are to be the judges of the facts as well as the law.

But we are more interested in the general principle involved in Mr. Coakley's application for a jury. We believe that the statute which allows the court to remand a case to a jury ought to be construed as more or less directory to the court to have a jury establish the facts wherever justice would permit.

Indeed, if there is virtue in the jury system then the jury ought to have the determination of facts in ALL cases except where very peculiar circumstances make it absolutely clear that justice demands the swifter processes of equity. The jury system ought to be extended to the establishment of the facts in every will contest and every controversy involving the establishment of facts in any branch of our courts, where it is not perfectly clear that for peculiar reasons justice would be better done by having the court itself determine the facts.

All reasonable doubt ought to be resolved in favor of giving a man his trial by jury. That is what we are supposed to have; that is supposed to be the great virtue of our juridical institutions. Our courts have been getting away from it and ought to be brought back to it. If they do not go back to it themselves the initiative and referendum will have to be invoked, for the people of this State believe in the jury system and they believe in it all the more as they recognize the character of its enemies and the source whence the criticism of it comes.

Fake Moving Picture Concerns

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

This letter should save many from being swindled by so-called "moving picture concerns" that have nothing to do with moving pictures, but have a GREAT DEAL to do with robbing ignorant people:

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir: I'm a girl fifteen years of age and have submitted plays for the movies for the last two months. Recently one has been accepted. They sent me a contract requesting me to pay $36 for their expenses. I'm poor and cannot afford to pay that sum of money. I do not work because I go to school yet. I am two years in this country and do not know to whom I should go for advice. I heard a great deal about you. I turn to you for advice.

I will be very much obliged to you if you will give your kind attention to this letter.

Yours respectfully,
G. K.

A concern that pretends to "accept" a moving picture play or scenario from a child fifteen years old, hardly able to write English correctly, and requests a payment of $36 "for expenses" is trying TO STEAL $36.

The managers of such a concern, and there are several of them, including one or two very pretentious, ought to be put in jail. Unfortunately, they manage as a rule to keep within the law. They do not say in so many words that they will take the play and PRODUCE it. They praise it, and their message is if you will send us money we will "ENDEAVOR" or "USE OUR BEST EFFORTS" to secure early production for your play. That means robbery.

There are other concerns, some organized on a big scale, that exploit the ignorant public. They pretend to teach the art of writing moving picture scenarios. They encourage thousands to spend their money vainly and waste their time in an effort that will never produce any results. They have a well organized system of fake encouragement, pretending to "criticize" the efforts sent in and giving false encouragement that causes continued payment of "fees" for teaching.

They do not even write separate letters to their easily deceived victims. One letter will do for a thousand, merely changing the name and address at the top of the letter and writing false encouragement to lure the victim on to further expenses.

Readers should know that genuine moving picture concerns are not trying to get young people or old people to write scenarios. They are flooded with the work of experienced people.

They know where they can get what they WANT, and they go there for it.

Those that undertake to buy and produce the picture scenarios of inexperienced people, and thus secure from their victims small payments from month to month, or that endeavor as in the case of the letter printed here, to take from a child a sum that is outrageous, are swindlers, and should be avoided as such.

Mayor's Optimism an Aid to the Community

We want to congratulate Mayor Curley upon the successful outcome of his efforts to re-establish peace in the building trades in Boston. It will be of immense value to the prosperity of this city during the two-year period of the agreed peace.

It would have been a severe blow to the people of Boston to have allowed the light of our dawning prosperity to be shut out from Boston by a labor dispute which could be peacefully settled as this peaceable settlement shows that it could be.

Mayor Curley's optimism in these negotiations has been a great benefit to the community, and the community ought to appreciate it, and undoubtedly it does appreciate it.

TREASURE IS SOUGHT IN MINE

POMEROY, O., April 9.—Search for "treasure" reputed to aggregate $150,000 has been started in an old coal mine on the Rothgeb farm, near here. The story is that when General John Morgan and his raiders surrendered on the Rothgeb farm during the Civil War they had buried perhaps $150,000 in United States greenbacks and coin. This currency, it is claimed, was confiscated during the raid by Morgan and his men.

For years after the Civil War exiled Confederates came from the South to hunt over the farm, after writing for permission. What they found has never been disclosed.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

Veteran City Men

Editor Boston American:

In behalf of the city employes who come under the pension, I desire to give the old men who are about to retire some information. These old men are led to believe they are to be taken care of under the retirement act. Under the old system they only receive $300, and yet many, I know, would like to get the benefit of the new system which is the retirement act. Many of the old men have an opinion that they come under the new system. This is not so, because if they desire to be under the new system they must first make out an application.

If the old men do not make out the application it gives those in charge of the retirement board an opinion they are satisfied with the old pension. This matter should have been explained to these old men, who have given the best part of their lives to the city.

What Did America Get?

Editor Boston American:

Are not the American people carrying practically the whole burden of the World War, and what did the American people get out of it? What did Wilson and his advisers accomplish by sacrificing our young men and burdening the people with over $30,000,000,000 debt? Not world democracy, not self determination for smaller nations. Then what?

THE HELPING HAND

Aids Large Family

Editor Helping Hand:

I read of the case of the Italian family of six children, brought to the attention of the Helping Hand by Mrs. A. C. K. Will you see that they get the enclosed two bucks and not my name or address? R. G.

ED. NOTE—Many thanks. The two simoleons will be passed along and your request for anonymity observed. They should go a long way toward filling empty little stomachs.

Likes Dolls

Editor Helping Hand:

We received your dolls and want to thank you kindly for them. All the girls have one and enjoy them very much. It was very good of you to think of us all, and we play with them every day. I will close now. M. B.

ED. NOTE—These were the little girls of the Children's Heart Hospital whom we mentioned to the readers who offered dolls. Little M. B. means to thank the kind people who gave them, even though her letter is addressed to the Helping Hand column.

Wants a Stove

Editor Helping Hand:

I would like to ask if any of the readers has a large stove, with oven or without. I do not mind cleaning it if it would be safe to cook on. I cannot afford to buy one, but I would be glad to give a day's housecleaning in return if desired. M. M.

Will Board Child

Editor Helping Hand:

I read your column every day and think it splendid, and would like to do something to help. I have no children's clothes, but would take a poor child from eight to twelve years old to board and clothe. I have a new pair of corsets, size 30, I will give to someone. If anyone has a stroller they do not need I would like it. I have a couch with drop sides; and an adjustable dress form that I would give someone who makes her living by sewing.

MRS. L. H. N.

ED. NOTE—Your kind offer will be held for replies.

Must Leave Child

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if you can find me a home to board my little boy, one month old, Catholic preferred? Circumstances compel me to go to work in order to support myself and child, and I have no place to leave the little one.

MRS. A. S.

Crocheting

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there someone who would want to crochet a baby bonnet for me? MRS. W. S.

ED. NOTE—E. M., who is trying to pay some doctor's bills by crocheting, will be put in touch with you.

Offers a Crib

Editor Helping Hand:

I see that Mrs. P. H. G. asks for a baby hammock. I have one that I will gladly give her. I also have a crib that I would give to someone if you will just let me know who to give it to. Do you think that the Helping Hand could possibly help me by giving me a carriage and some clothes for my babies, one is two and a half (takes three or four-year size) and the other is four months? MRS. J. B. W.

ED. NOTE—Mrs. F. H. G. and Mrs. M. C., who asked for a crib, will be notified of your kind offer.

Offers Clothing

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a lady's jersey suit, small 38; two men's suits, and an overcoat, 36. Good luck to you in your good work.

MRS. M. E. D.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with Mrs. M. G. K., who has just got out of the hospital and is without decent clothes to wear, and with J. C., who is much in need of the other clothes.

Asks Doll Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some things that need repairing, but will do someone for a change or two. I am poor myself, so they aren't very expensive. I'll try to find more. Also have a few baby clothes for S. M. H. Can some one give me a doll carriage for my little girls? I will pay expressage and a dollar or so. MRS. A. B.

ED. NOTE—Thanks for fine list, which was too long to publish. You will be put in touch with S. M. H., and with Mrs. L. St. P., who has a large family of girls and boys, and who would be glad to have the things to make over.

Thank You

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a bassinette and a mattress to fit for Mrs. B. J. H., who asked for it. Please put me in touch with her. MRS. A. F.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with her.

Dresses for Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some dresses for a girl about eleven years old, a wash suit for a boy three and some rompers for a child one or two. I would like to give them to Mrs. T. F. S. I also have a pair of boys' shoes about size 4.

MRS. L. B.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. Mrs. T. F. S. will be notified of your kind offer.

Wants Magazines

Editor Helping Hand:

I would like to have the magazines that the "Malden Reader" offered. I have been under a severe operation and cannot do much but read and sew. I have a blue silvertone skirt and two Summer dresses, size 36, that I would gladly give to anyone needing them. Wish I had more to give to help you in this work you are doing. MRS. R. B.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with "Malden Reader" and with Mrs. H. A. R., who needs the dresses.

Requires a Carpet

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a poor aged lady living alone, and I thought after reading some of the letters in the Helping Hand that someone might have an old carpet so I could cover two little rooms that I have, or some old rugs. I would appreciate them very much.

MRS. A. C.

VENGEFUL GODS HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH THE CASE

By Herbert Kaufman

LORD CARNARVON was bitten by an insect. But more likely killed by a "bug" for archaeology.

Carelessness and microbes did for him what that very efficient pair of executioners daily do for thousands the world over. Vital statistics find nothing extraordinary in the case.

Suppose we let Dr. Imagination make a diagnosis.

They Don't Last Long in the Tropics

A great collector stumbles into the supreme find of the century. From that moment regularity goes by the board; eating and sleeping schedules become scraps of paper—and all in a climate which demands, above everything else, calmness and zealous physical care.

He spends hours at a stretch in fetid, underground chambers. When out of the tomb interviewers and officious tourists annoy him.

Day by day unique specimens fire enthusiasm to fever pitch. A decidedly bad thing for a normally phlegmatic person. Excited folk don't last long in the tropics. Insurance tables show that, too.

Doyle Should Consult Sherlock Holmes

He handles rot and decay and verdegris. They fill his lungs and pores. A beetle or a gnat wanders upon the scene, lights on the man's face and stings him. See him scratch the wound—particularly notice an unclean nail. A deranged system is easily poisoned; environment, temperature and strain invite complications. Pneumonia sets in.

Dr. Conan Doyle hints of occult forces which one would expect the author of Sherlock Holmes to ridicule.

The only apparent mystery in Carnarvon's death is its primary cause. Modern pathologists are almost as ignorant of blood poisoning as Tutankhamen's own leeches were.

An Explanation for Some Recent Prices

Treasury officials estimate that important receipts will reach a half billion dollars this year. Kindly remember that not a penny of it comes out of Europe's pocket.

These taxes are laid upon American importers who add a bit for profits and overhead and pass the increased amount on to jobber and retailer, each of whom in turn increases the tax and finally collects from you.

Meanwhile protected industries, secured against reasonable foreign competition by a tariff largely written by its chief beneficiaries, boldly burden national living costs with several billions more than they dared to charge before Congress listened to its "master's voice."

Of League and Plagues and Talking Hats

Lord Robert Cecil would cure universal hates with public opinion. Force, to his mind, is not an effective influence in world affairs. With all civilization protesting against the Ruhr seizure, will he kindly explain why his peace serum is not working along the Rhine?

Pauline Allen, a Boston relief worker, is stricken with typhus at Constantinople. Deaths among the refugees continue at an alarming rate without disturbing the aplomb of Washington.

Miss Allen will by no means be the last American plague victim if this country does not promptly take fuller precautions against the menaces that threaten from the steerage of all vessels out of East Mediterranean ports.

Speaking of serums—when were you last vaccinated?

Magellan's helmet turns up in the Philippines. How our thrills change with the years. Four centuries ago the circumnavigation of the globe was an arresting wonder.

Now winged ships sail the seven seas and voices leap from one ocean to another and men never pause to weigh the miracle.

The Final Battle Ground

Bolshevism and all the rabid creeds disaffecting the earth today promise social standardization by the elimination of enterprise and order.

We must offset the spread of these heresies by stimulating the multitudes to a higher common social standard, and do it by awakening their spirits of enterprise and by calling history to bear witness how faithfully opportunity has kept covenant with orderly and determined peoples.

We must oppose disorder with knowledge. The final struggle between right and wrong will be fought out in the schoolroom.

When educational budgets universally exceed military expenditures, sumptuary masses and classes will alike pass, but mobs and monarchs will continue to burst bounds and violate boundaries until peoples put more faith in type founders than gun foundries.

Democracy must win lastingness through enlightenment—must banish ignorance or be destroyed by it.
